Huge undercurrent against BJP: Rahul

PREETHA NAIR @ New Delhi

THERE is a massive undercurrent against the BJP on the ground but Opposition parties will have to stand united to defeat it, former Congress president Rahul Gandhi said on Saturday.

"There is a huge undercurrent on the ground and it will be difficult for BJP to win 2024. However, the Opposition has to coordinate properly and go to the people with an alternative vision," he said, adding the Congress will sweep the Madhya Pradesh elections.

Rahul claimed that all Opposition leaders are in support of the Congress though many of them might not join his Bharat Jodo Yatra due to political and other compulsions.

"I feel that both Akhilesh and Mayawati are against the idea of nafrat ka Hindustan (India of hatred), and they stand for Mohabbat ka Hindustan (India of love)," he said.

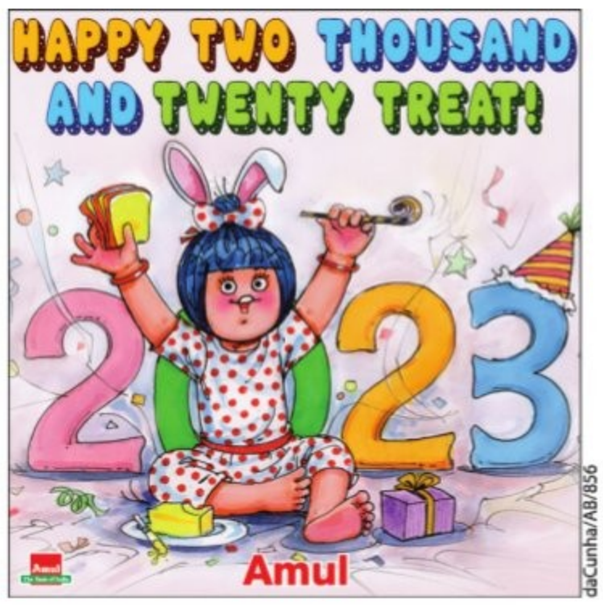
Parrying a question about him being the prime ministerial face of the Opposition for the 2024 elections, Rahul said his focus now is on uniting India.

"I don't fall for these types of questions. You can keep asking. My focus is on uniting the country," he said.

Indicating that the Congress can act as the fulcrum of Opposition unity ahead of the 2024 Lok Sabha elections, Rahul said Congress alone can provide a central ideological framework at the national level, adding that regional parties cannot represent a vision for the country.

"To defeat the BJP, we need an ideology. If you look at SP, they don't have a national political thought. They have a position in UP and they have to defend it. Their line of politics wouldn't work in Kerala or Karnataka or Bihar," he said.

"There is a need for a central ideological framework and only Congress can provide that. That is our role. But our role is also to make the Opposition parties comfortable and to respect them. It's mutual," he added.



Intellectuals to Muslim youth: Join armed forces, serve nation

MOHAMMED YACOOB @ Bengaluru

SEVERAL Muslim organisations appealed to Muslims to make it a New Year resolution to encourage youngsters to join the armed forces. "We want one or two members of the community from every locality to join the armed forces and serve the nation. Career counselling during matriculation is also needed," Syed Tanveer Ahmed, national secretary, Jamaat-e-Islami Hind (JIH) told TNSE. P2

WHY LANGUAGE DIVERSITY MATTERS

SIR Herbert Risley, then British Home Secretary, wrote to Lord Curzon in December 1903 proposing the transfer of Chittagong, Dacca and Mymensingh divisions to Assam to allow for the reorganisation of the Bengal Presidency towards administrative efficiency. Not surprisingly, however, as questions of political reform and responsive government gained ground, provincial reorganisation soon got linked to the idea of culturally unified provinces. As a result, Bengal was proposed to be partitioned in 1905 into East Bengal and West Bengal. This created a stiff resistance from the people. A decade later, when the question of deciding on the defining principle for demarcating provinces was discussed in the Congress Session of 1917, Annie Besant strongly opposed religious segregation. In 1928 at the Lucknow Congress meeting, the committee to prepare a draft constitution headed by Motilal Nehru proposed that the free Indian state shall have no religion. It also adopted a resolution to permit the use of English along with Hindustani for the work of the Centre. Both these ideas found an honourable place in the Indian Constitution in 1949.

After Independence, though Jawaharlal Nehru accepted the principle of linguistic and cultural identity as the determining principle for state formation, he cautioned against excessive language pride becoming a threat to India's national unity. Andhra Pradesh became the first such linguistic state to be created in the wake of a violent popular agitation. In 1953, the State Reorganisation Commission was set up and SG Barve was deputed to the USSR to study the Russian experience of handling language diversity. During the 1950s, 14 States and nine Union Territories were created. In the 1960s, Punjab was created as a result of the agitation led by Sant Fateh Singh and Master Tara Singh, and during the 1970s the North Eastern States were created. P4

Reluctant Pope who fought for traditional value system

16.04.1927 - 31.12.2022

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

FORMER Pope Benedict XVI, who became the first pontiff of the Catholic Church to resign in over 600 years, died on Saturday in the Vatican at the age of 95.

Never wanting to be a pope, German Cardinal Joseph Ratzinger said it felt like a guillotine had come down on him when he was elected as the successor to John Paul II in April 2005.

"I knew I wasn't really the man for the job," he later said. Known for his conservative views, the German theologian insisted that the church stay true to its doctrine and traditions in the face of a changing world.

"In vast areas of the world today, there is a strange forgetfulness of God," he once lamented.

He soon set out on a mission to set the Church on a tradition-minded path but was distracted by a wave of scandals. The Church found itself on the defensive when an ever-growing number of victims spoke out of their abuse at the hands of priests. A report commissioned by the Church accused him of personally failing to stop the abuse of minors. Adding to Benedict's woes, his butler leaked his personal papers exposing power struggles and corruption within the Church. By then, the "reluctant pope" was contemplating an exit from papacy. He resigned on February 28, 2013 citing ill-health.

Though his staunch defence of traditional Catholic teachings on abortion and gay marriage angered liberals, for traditionalists, Benedict's era was a golden age to which they look back with nostalgia. P12

JOY AND RELIEF AFTER 2 YEARS, CROWDS THRONG POPULAR SPOTS

Brigade Rd, Church St and MG Rd flooded with revellers who started gathered from 5.30pm

Lathicharge at Koramangala

PRAVEEN KUMAR @ Bengaluru

A WOMAN, who was accompanied by her boyfriend, was allegedly molested on Church Street. Her boyfriend rained blows on the miscreants. However, the miscreants escaped before the police arrived. The police were not available to confirm the incident and if any complaint has been filed by the victim. Bengaluru police resorted to lathicharge at Kormangala on several occasions to control the crowd as people were standing outside the pubs to look at people dancing inside the pubs.

A massive contingent of police was deployed at MG Road, Brigade Road, and Church Street. To ensure the safety of women, the police had created 37 women safety islands in the CBD areas and across the city. Watch towers were put up every 100m.

BBMP marshals at Church Street and other connecting roads were seen advising people to wear masks. Cops in plainclothes were monitoring any attempts to peddle drugs.

Around 14,000 police personnel were deployed across the city. More security deployments were made on MG Road, Brigade Road, Church Street, Koramangala, Indiranagar, JP Nagar and other areas where there are many pubs. Check posts were put at 200 points to prevent drunk driving. Personnel at the posts booked the drivers but also ensured that the violators reach home safely.

DONNA EVA & NAMRATA SINDWANI @ Bengaluru

IT was a long wait of two years of staying indoors and battling anxiety and distress, and waiting for the worst of times of get over. The city was back in its usual hue to celebrate the coming of 2023.

The typical happening spots in the city like Brigade Road, Church Street and MG Road were thronged by party goers. Areas like Indiranagar and Koramangala were also crowded as the youngsters view them as their hangout spots in the city.

Brigade Road, Church Street and other areas were back to their effervescent self with groups of youths and families who have dressed to step into the New Year in a grand manner.

It did not take time for the streets to be choked. Crowds began pouring onto the roads from 5.30pm. The huge police deployment around various corners of the city tried to keep the swelling crowds to the footpaths on Brigade Road to ensure smooth flow of traffic before the road was closed while eager party-goers flocked Church Street early on Saturday.

It was also a relief for businesses as activities were back in full swing which have been reeling since the pandemic, and despite several measures, have failed to recover their margins. "Business in general has been much better than usual compared to the previous years. We were not accepting reservations as it was unlikely that many would be able to make it on time. After 6pm, we began taking in customers on a first-come-first-serve basis," said Vikas, manager of Coco's Bar and Kitchen on Church Street.

However, the rate of surveillance has also affected clubs and similar businesses. "A scenario which has been common in New Year's eve is despite the streets being crowded, many do not opt to visit the clubs. Many chose to spend their time on the street instead of entering the clubs, fearing the police and heavy surveillance. Many streets were also closed. People walk to these areas and spend the New Year's eve on roads instead different clubs and restaurants," said Church Street Social General Manage K Omprakash.

Restaurants like Mainland China, which are family-oriented, seemed to be faring better as they had closed off several sections due to complete reservations.

The manager at TOIT Brewpub in Indiranagar said they were expecting a footfall of around 800 to 1,000 people for New Year's celebrations. He exclaimed that the business was running well and 60 per cent tables were reserved by evening. The general manager at Three Dots and a Dash was also happy about the business compared to the pre-pandemic levels.

Home Minister on MG Rd

To inspect security arrangements and boost the morale of the police personnel on duty, state Home Minister Araga Jnanendra visited MG Road on Saturday, and urged citizens to maintain peace and be watchful. He said that the police and government are working overtime for their security.

Family & Covid on mind, many stay home

NAMRATA SINDWANI @Bengaluru

IT was a mix of precaution and choice as many Bengalureans remained indoors on the New Year's eve, and abstained from partying in restaurants and clubs.

There was not much enthusiasm among youths to celebrate the New Year outside keeping in view the Covid-19 situation.

In addition to taking precaution, people also preferred to stay home as the deadline for celebrations was 1am. Gayatri Piplani, a working professional from Delhi, said that since she was working on Sunday, she preferred to stay home. Drawing a comparison between Bengaluru to Delhi, she said that the party scenario was much better in Delhi but in Bengaluru everything shuts at 1am regardless of the Covid-19 situation.

Dismissing the fear reason, many said they wanted to stay home and wished to spend time with their families rather than party outside.

A group of three friends, who were walking the streets of Indiranagar, said that after spending time together, they are planning to go back to their respective homes.

Vinaya S, Pranjal Singh and Abdullah, are all working professionals. They shared the common belief that the day was meant to be with friends, and at night, they should be with their families to herald the New Year.

Despite huge crowds at various pubs and restaurants across the city, the authorities said that they were strictly following the Covid-19 protocol which have been issued by the state government to ensure the safety of citizens.

The management of Toit Brewpub in Indiranagar said they are only allowing people wearing masks in the pub.

The general manager at Three Dots and a Dash reiterated that they are following all Covid-19 protocols. Sanitisers have been provided at various places in the restaurant, and the staff were sanitising the tables for every new customer.

Mantri asked to pay ₹5 lakh relief

YATHIRAJU @ Bengaluru

THE Consumer Commission directed Mantri Developers to pay ₹5 lakh compensation, ₹10,000 towards litigation expenses and a refund of ₹29.10 lakh advance with 10% interest per annum to a complainant for not handing over the apartment at Mantri Webcity as per the terms of the agreement.

The Bangalore Urban District Consumer Disputes Redressal Commission, comprising president M Shobha and member Renukadevi Deshpande, passed the order while partly allowing the complaint filed by Nailah Patanwala, a resident of Tasker Town.

The commission noted that the complainant has established that Mantri Developers has committed a deficiency of service as it failed to complete the project and hand over the possession within September 2018. The termination of the agreement and cancellation of booking by the developer without any refund is illegal and amounts to unfair trade practice, the commission said.

It observed that Mantri Developers made the complainant run from pillar to post and approach the commission to recover the amount. The complainant has suffered mental agony and financial loss and has to pay exorbitant interest on the loan raised by her from SBI. She is, therefore, entitled to relief, the commission said.

MOULANA Maqsood Imran Rashadi, chief cleric of Jamia Masjid in Bengaluru said that he is planning to send out an appeal to all 300 plus masjids in Bengaluru to highlight the importance of joining the armed forces during Friday congregation and to give out details of exam dates and notifications.

Individuals and institutions must come together to provide guidance and coaching to those who lack the means and resources, said Wing Commander (retd) Md Shamim Akhtar. "It is also important for the community leaders to engage with the state and central governments. The task at hand is challenging and demands immediate action," he said.

Anees Kutty, defence career counsellor, appealed to the leaders and members of the community to spread awareness about the importance of studying in Navodaya residential schools and schools run by the defence ministry to inspire children. "The masjids should also consider the option of opening its doors for members from other communities for combined preparation for competitive exams, after prayer time," said Kutty.

IMAGINING THE CITY

AT the end of each year, it is common to ask ourselves what we wish for in the New Year. And that is not only for our personal lives, it includes asking what we wish for the places we inhabit. In Namma Bengaluru, there is a lot to wish for, because there is so much we have not done yet.

It will be an interesting year, because we will have two major elections in this period -- to the state Assembly which decides so much of what happens in the city, and to the much-maligned BBMP, which seems forever on a treadmill of promising big changes but rarely delivering any of it.

The first thing to wish for, then, is that the public institutions that shape our lives should do their jobs much better. They should deliver public services far more effectively, build much better infrastructure, and strive to improve the ease of living for people at all income levels.

One can write these down as targets. BMTC should add 5,000 buses at least this year. BBMP should build 100+ walkable footpaths on major streets. Bescom should ensure renewable power supply to at least 1/10th of the buildings in the city. Ten more lakes should be revived and then managed by local communities. And so on.

A list like that, however, won't capture the essence of the change we want. In the life of a city, items on a wish-list can be checked off as and when we get them, but the list itself is perennial, with new things appearing on it constantly. It represents an endless imagination of what the people of Namma Bengaluru want it to be.

ASHWIN MAHESH

What we really want, therefore, is a good way of adding new things to that list, again and again. How can we create a collective aspiration of what we want the city to be, and then achieve it?

With or without answers to this question, the city changes. It is more than 10 years since BDA built the last planned layout, but thirty lakh people have moved to Bengaluru in the meantime. Large employers are reshaping neighbourhoods simply by locating jobs in them. And these relentless trends have recently been compounded by waves of Covid, which have dramatically changed how people work in the city and how they now view the balance between life and work.

These changes appear to homogenise our lives in some ways, but they have also brought about much diversity and inequality. Our government institutions struggle with this, because they know only to operate with one rule for all situations, as though all people lead similar lives for the same goals.

As a result, we are merely going from one year to the next, watching new buildings come up randomly in places that are far from the original city. The people in those places are voting with their feet, leaving their hometowns and villages to be 'in Bengaluru', despite the sprawl and chaos. And yet they do not join it fully, finding homes and work in the city's periphery, which is the only place they can afford one and find the other.

We need to shake this tree really hard. It contains much good fruit, which is why our city is growing faster than almost any other place on the planet. But too often we find ourselves on the ground, looking up at it and thinking, "if only we could taste them".

We have gone year after year asking ourselves what new things we wish for the city. It is time to ask how we should think about it.

HEALTH, THE GREATEST WEALTH OF A NATION

THE recent unprecedented devastating Covid pandemic had many lessons for us. It showed us as the saying goes 'Health is the greatest wealth' we have and 'a country is only as strong as its healthcare is'. Fortunately for us, both the citizens and the government have woken up to this and a slew of measures has been taken to make our nation healthy.

Another saying that I would like to emphasise is that 'An ounce of prevention is better than a ton of cure'. This cannot be overemphasised. We as a developing nation have been struck by both communicable diseases (infectious diseases) and non-communicable diseases (lifestyle diseases) and this combination is an unbearable burden for society. This is again best dealt with public, preventive, primary and promotive health.

It is a matter of grave concern that even today one of the leading causes of death in children below the age of 5 is diarrhoeal diseases, other infections and malnutrition. A robust public healthcare with attention to sanitation, clean drinking water, nutrition, vaccination and vector control measures (anti-mosquito and other pest control measures and clean disposal of garbage) can clearly save millions of lives at a fraction of the cost it will take to treat these diseases.

Fortunately, the government has taken many measures to improve sanitation, drinking water, aggressive vaccination, TB eradication and childhood nutrition measures to counter these risks.

It is unfortunate that lifestyle diseases which are very much under our individual control now account for more deaths than communicable diseases. We now have a huge burden of diabetes, hypertension, heart diseases, kidney disease, obesity, cancer and other NCDs in our country and unfortunately, we not only have a huge burden of these diseases but many of them affect us earlier than the western population. In these cases, prevention alone is the key to control the devastating consequences of these diseases.

Lifestyle issues have become the bane of our society and as a senior doctor I have a few suggestions for the overall health of our society. The pandemic has certainly made matters worse as we are not focusing enough on our diet and exercise routine and this will certainly worsen the already emerging epidemic of obesity, diabetes and hypertension.

The simple suggestions I have for our youngsters to remain healthy is to pay attention to the following S's in your life. It is important that these lifestyle interventions happen very early in life.

Sugar and calories in the form of carbohydrates are the bane of our society and are the root cause of many illnesses like diabetes and obesity. Sugar is the new tobacco of today.

Smoking and tobacco in any form is poison and should be avoided at all costs.

Dr H SUDARSHAN BALLAL
Chairman, Manipal Hospitals, Manipal Health Enterprises

Salt intake in excess of the normal can lead to hypertension and other related diseases. Sedentary lifestyle should be avoided. Do not be a couch potato, move around exercise and be active.

A good night's regular sleep is important for a healthy life.

Stress and specially distress is bad for one's health. Take help from your friends, teachers, parents and other advisors if you get into a stressful state that you cannot handle.

Sadness or depression and mental health issues are frequently unrecognised and untreated and it is something we have to be aware of and need to resolve before it becomes a serious problem. Seek help if you are undergoing any mental health issues and do not let the fear of stigma come in the way.

Alcohol is certainly a no-no for youngsters because of the potential toxic effects and the risk of addiction.

Sex education is an important tool in one's curriculum and should be emphasised both in schools and colleges for the right kind of overall physical and sexual health development.

Social skills and interactions is another important facet in our overall development which has been seriously affected by excessive use of social media, phones, computers, video games etc and it is time for us to set this right for a healthier society.

Substance abuse is another menace of today that needs to be addressed. We should go all out to get rid of drugs from society, not just by punishment but also by creating awareness, counselling and rehabilitation measures.

It is a priority for us to keep ourselves, our society and the nation healthy. A robust public, preventive, primary healthcare system, awareness of lifestyle diseases and ample measures to modify lifestyles will go a long way in helping us being healthy. As we enter the new year let us take home this message: A healthy nation is a strong and happy nation. Let all of us work to make this happen.

PEOPLE TO LOOK FORWARD TO IN 2023

From politics to sports to decongesting Bengaluru, here are a few people from Karnataka who will have a packed year....

Basavaraj Bommai, Chief Minister

The 2023 Assembly polls will be a big test for Bommai's leadership. BJP is going to polls with development works taken up during Yediyurappa and Bommai governments as a major poll plank. Bommai will present the budget in February, just two months before the polls. It is likely to be the government's report card as well as the statement of intent.

BS Yediyurappa, former CM & senior BJP leader

The Lingayat strongman has been appointed as a member of the BJP's Parliamentary Board. Though there were talks about BJP sidelining him to make way for younger leaders, his role will be important in the 2023 polls as retaining support from the dominant Lingayat community will be crucial for BJP which is making all efforts to come back to power in the state.

DK Shivakumar, president, Karnataka Pradesh Congress Committee

After taking over as the president of the state Congress, DK Shivakumar was able to halt its losing streak, but the big challenge for his leadership will to be ensure the party's victory in the 2023 polls. As the KPCC chief, he has to ensure that the party has to fight the elections as one cohesive unit.

HD Kumaraswamy, former CM & senior JDS leader

While having a strong hold over the Old Mysuru region, the Janata Dal (Secular) party is also trying to make inroads in other parts of the state. If there is a hung verdict in the 2023 polls, Kumaraswamy is the man to watch out for. He is a two-term CM in coalition governments that were formed both with BJP and Congress.

Gali Janardhana Reddy, former minister & mining baron

Miffed over being sidelined in the BJP, mining baron-turned-politician from Ballari launched a new political party 'Kalyan Rajya Pragati Paksha'. The former minister, who played a key role in the formation of the BJP government headed by BS Yediyurappa in 2008, hopes to make a mark in 2023.

MA Saleem, Special Commissioner of Police (Traffic), Bengaluru City

By bringing visible changes in Bengaluru's traffic as soon as taking charge, ADGP MA Saleem has a big task ahead. Though his experience in traffic management has improved the city traffic, he has several items on his bucket list. Bengal-ureans need to wait and watch whether the changes he introduces will help the city's mobility in the long term.

Roger Binny, BCCI president

Member of the World Cup winning cricket squad in 1983, the 67-year-old former Indian pacer from Karnataka has several priorities, from preventing injuries to players to improving the pitches in the country. The nation now looks forward to the changes he would bring to the Indian cricket team for its better management. He also has experience as the president of the Karnataka State Cricket Association (2019-22).

Aprameya Radhakrishna, co-founder & CEO of Koo

Bengaluru-based Koo is the second largest micro-blogging platform globally. The platform is free for all users across the world. The objective is to enable users across the World to express themselves online in their mother tongue. Twitter rival Koo recently launched in Brazil with the addition of the Portuguese language.

SHAH: VOTE FOR JDS IS VOTE FOR CONGRESS

Says BJP will fight Assembly polls alone

DEVARAJ B HIREHALLI @ Bengaluru

UNION Home Minister Amit Shah, who ended his two-day Karnataka trip in Bengaluru on Saturday, said that it is time to put an end to blackmail politics in the state.

He was speaking after launching the BJP's 'Booth Vijay Abhiyan' in which the party's presidents and booth level agents of 28 Assembly constituencies of Bengaluru participated.Ruling out any alliance with anyone in the 2023 Karnataka Assembly elections, Shah asked party workers not to be misled by talks about the BJP aligning with other parties, especially JDS. "We cannot leave a party (referring to JDS) that wins 30-35 seats to continue with its blackmail politics. The time has come for BJP workers to settle scores. A vote for the JDS is a vote for the Congress," Shah said, adding that both the parties are two faces of the same coin.

He dismissed speculation of a triangular fight in Karnataka, saying that it was a straight contest between the BJP and the Congress and JD(S) combine. "The BJP will fight the polls alone and form its own government. I appeal to the people of Karnataka to give a full mandate to us to put an end to family politics, corruption and casteism," he added.

He also asked the people of the state to choose between 'deshbhakt' BJP which protects the state and the country from extremists and Congress and JDS who defend extremists. "On the one hand, there is BJP and PM Modi who have banned extremist organisations like PFI... and there is Congress that defends the 'tukde tukde gang' that wants to break the country," he thundered.

He said while BJP under the leadership of Modi has developed Ayodhya, Kashi, Somnath, Kedarnath and Badrinath, the Congress glorifies Tipu Sultan. "In 2022, the BJP won five of the seven states then went for polls. The Congress failed to even become the primary opposition party in Gujarat due to Modi's popularity," he added.

Shah said the BJP takes inspiration from Modi inaugurating the 108-ft statue of Nadaprabhu Kempegowda at Bengaluru International Airport to win more than 20 of the 28 seats in the state capital.

Shah listed out the contributions of the Modi government to Bengaluru, especially Metro rail expansion and hoped that the services to BIA will be operational by 2023 end.

Meanwhile, Shah also visited a prominent Vokkaliga Mutt in Bengaluru on Saturday.

Shah praises Himveers, says country in safe hands

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

UNION Home Minister Amit Shah on Saturday appreciated the work being done by the Indo-Tibetan Border Police (ITBP) personnel and assured them that the Union Government will ensure that they will get to spend 100 days in a year with their families or in the headquarters. The ITBP has been doing yeomen service to the nation by guarding the borders even in inhospitable conditions, he said. Shah said he is never worried about borders as he knows that the ITBP personnel are guarding the borders and no one can even dare to occupy even an inch of India's land. People have bestowed ITBP jawans the title of 'Himveer' which is bigger than Padma Shri and Padma Vibhushan, he added.

He was speaking after inaugurating a newly constructed office and residential buildings of the Indo-Tibetan Border Police (ITBP) and laying the foundation stone for a Central Detective Training Institute (CDTI) of the Bureau of Police Research and Development (BPR&D) in Bengaluru rural district. Police personnel working in different states need to have better communication and coordination with improved dialogue to deal with various challenges including narcotics, terrorism and infiltration in the border states, he said.

Policing in Metros will be a challenge in future and there is a need for a strategy based on research to ensure proper policing, he said. The Central Detective Training Institute of the BPR&D will help improve the forensic science-based investigation in Karnataka and the neighbouring states.

'Govt should not impose Hindi'

IN recent years, the process of creation/demand of smaller states, as largely monolingual entities, has continued, Telangana being the last such instance. The entire process indicates clearly that though India accepted nineteenth century ideas of nationalism for its freedom struggle, it has never endorsed one nation-one language theory. The Constituent Assembly debates show a great understanding of India as a linguistically plural nation.

Often the question asked is, how many languages does India have? It is difficult to provide an answer with any certainty.

The 1961 Census had presented a list of 1,652 'Mother Tongues'. Fifty years later, the 2011 Census admitted 1,369 'mother tongues'. It is necessary to note that what the Census lists as 'Mother Tongue' does not get listed in its final report as 'Language'.

The Census filters the name by applying a variety of non-linguistic criterion such as the minimum number of speakers (10,000 or above), having a known grammar (reported by professional linguists) and so on. Yet, it is clear that India lost in the period of fifty years between the two Census exercises 283 'mother tongues', at the mechanically averaged rate of some 5.6 mother tongues a year. The 'mother tongues' of the 1961 Census were 'grouped together' under 109 'language heads', of which 10 were names of languages and the 109th was titled 'all others'. The 2011 census had grouped the mother tongues under 121 'languages', of which 22 are included in the 8th Schedule of the Constitution and 99 'non-scheduled' languages. Going by the final figures, one may get the impression that the number of 'languages' increased from 108 to 121 during the span of half a century since Independence. In reality, India has lost several hundred languages in that very span of time.

Language is one issue for governments, quite another for the people. Governments look at language as a burden on the exchequer, potential trigger for disputes, agitations and law and order matters. People think of languages as a matter of inheritance, cultural traditions and their intimate means of expression, rights and social relations. No pro-people language policy can allow indifference to a people's choice of language. BJP's insistence on promoting Hindi at the cost of other major languages is as anti-people in a multilingual society as is any particular state's policy of neglecting the languages of the linguistic minorities within that state.

UNESCO accepts that at present there are about 7,000 living languages in the world. If one were to look at the top 30 of those in terms of the number of speakers, Hindi, Bangla, Marathi, Telugu, Tamil, Kannada, Gujarati and Punjabi fall within that group. Of these top thirty, if one were to look at the five languages with the longest histories, Tamil, Kannada and Marathi fall in the category.

Hindi is probably the newest/youngest in the top 30. If that is the case, the Central government must make extra efforts to promote Tamil, Kannada and Marathi rather than constantly raising the war-cry in favour of Hindi.

Nobody in India is against Hindi, but people of all other languages will most surely be against its imposition. The BJP's Hindi-Hindutva equation is, therefore, fundamentally flawed from the perspective of history, Linguistics and also of enlightened and democratic governance. One would like to hope that the coercive language policy and language-promotion will be brought to an end allowing India to sustain itself as a 'union of states' as the Constitution defines it.

SHAH VISITS MINISTER SOMANNA'S RESIDENCE, HOLDS TALKS

Bengaluru6 Union Home Minister Amit Shah paying his visit to the housing minister V Somanna and holding deliberations for over one hour along with the BJP's top leaders including BJP national general secretary(Ogranisation) B L Santhosh, BJP state in charge Arun Singh, state general secretary(organisation) Rajesh Kunturu and BJP state president Nalinkumar Kateel created a ripple in the political circle on Saturday evening. Shah, who had visited the Adi Chuchanchanagiri banch Mutt at Vijayanagara obliged Somanna, a prominent Lingayath community leader, to visit the latter's house. The leaders held deliberations over the snacks. " Earlier in the morning B L Santhosh had informed me that Shah will come to my house. It is an example for the god gracing my goodness and hard work as Shah visited the house of an ordinary worker like me. His visit should not be interpreted otherwise as former chief minister B S Yediyurappa is still my leader", he told reporters.

Leftover food at Mandya BJP event dumped into pit

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Mysuru

A huge quantity of of food prepared for the people who attended Union Home Minister Amit Shah's event in Mandya was found dumped in a pit.

According to local villagers, 15 huge steel buckets, each containing 250 kg of vegetable bath, seven buckets of curd rice an 50,000 pieces of sweets were dumped in the pit and covered with mud. The pit was dug by using an excavator at the open ground near Mandya Boys College by the organisers.

More than a lakh people from Mandya and neighbouring districts were brought to the venue in KSRTC and private buses by BJP leaders on Friday for the party's Jana Sankalpa Yatra. The organisers had arranged food for 1.5 lakh people and had started serving the food around 1 pm. Within minutes, there were serpentine queues of people at food counters.

Food being dumped into pits in Mandya

But as Shah along with CM Basavaraj Bommai left Gejjalagere in Maddur taluk after inaugurating a dairy, the BJP leaders on the stage directed party workers to stop serving the food and ask the people to return to their chairs.

After the function, most people walked towards their buses to return back to their villages.

'Will affect 25L farmers': Siddu slams Shah's KMF-Amul cooperation remark

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

OPPOSITION Congress and netizens took strong exception to Union Home and Cooperation Minister Amit Shah's suggestion that Karnataka Milk Federation (KMF) and Amul India should work together to help farmers in Karnataka.

Former chief minister and Opposition Leader in the Assembly Siddramaiah said Shah's suggestion will have an adverse impact on 25 lakh farmers who depend on the KMF. Milk producers in Karnataka do business for around Rs 20,000 crore and corporates in Gujarat are now eyeing it, Siddaramaiah alleged.

Many took to social media platforms to criticize what they termed as a suggestion for the merger of KMF with KMF and tweeted #SaveNandini. People also compared the quality of both the brands and said Nandini was better in terms of quality, taste and even price. Calling KMF Karnataka's pride, citizens exclaimed that KMF was the top and a profitable brand in Karnataka.

SHIMUL chief hails idea of Amul-Nandini 'merger'

Chitradurga: President of the Shivamogga, Davanagere and Chitradurga Cooperative Milk Producers' Societies Union Ltd (SHIMUL) NH Shreepada Rao on Saturday welcomed Union Cooperative Minister Amit Shah's suggestion to merge Nandini with Amul of Gujarat. He told The New Sunday Express, "This is a good move as it helps dairy farmers get remunerative prices for milk. Moreover, value addition for milk procured by farmers will fetch additional revenue." Stating that the milk procurement price is low in the state as compared to Amul, he said, "Our farmers too will get a good price if this merger takes place. Private players will become irrelevant in Karnataka." He said that many farmers in the state sell milk to private players, who package it and sell it at higher prices in other states. This can be prevented if the state government increases the milk procurement price. He said Nandini products will have a global presence if the merger takes place. "Though we are providing milk and milk products of good quality, we are unable to sell them abroad. With the merger, our products too can be exported," he added.

WHAT IS THE WAY AHEAD FOR BJP

AS 2022 becomes part of history, any observer of public life in Karnataka will be baffled by the upsurge in casteism. Some might argue that it is a lesser evil than communalism or no evil at all. Both are against the secular rubric of our Constitution. Political outfits holding aloft the banner of their so-called secularism are indulging in extreme forms of casteism in the same way socialism has become a mere shibboleth for our parties swearing by it.

If BJP is accused of playing anti-Muslim communalism elsewhere in the country, in Karnataka, it is another political party indulging in caste-based politics. The move to adopt an anti-conversion law, unveiling of a portrait of Veer Savarkar in the Belagavi Assembly chamber, running down Tipu Sultan or going soft on the demand to restore the status of the mosque in Srirangapatna as a Hanuman temple appear to be symbolic assertions of the Hindutva stand of the party.

Queering the pitch on casteism is Congress leader Siddaramaiah who has lately become a "professor "of ancient India and talking of Aryans and Dravidians. He has made common cause with DMK, which has for decades been indulging in divisive politics and talking of racial divide. Siddaramaiah has not learnt any lesson from his attempt to drive a wedge between Veerashaivas and Lingayats ahead of the 2018 Assembly elections.

No doubt one can give credence to such a division and it cannot be wished away... The baggage of caste-based political divisions will surely inform the 2023 Assembly elections. For instance, the Basavaraj Bommai ministry has already constituted a committee of ministers to decide on providing internal reservation among Scheduled Castes. That there should be internal reservation among SCs and the creamy layer should be excluded from the reservation regime is old hat. Decades ago, the Government of India-constituted committee headed by Justice Bheem Rao Lokur, a former judge of the Allahabad High Court, and Union law secretary had made such a recommendation. It was long before the government of undivided Andhra Pradesh took such a decision. The Bommai government is now acting on the recommendations of Justice AJ Sadashiva. In support of the action of the government is the fact that a section of the thinking public has felt that well-to-do SCs should be denied perpetual reservation.

ARAKERE JAYARAM
Senior journalist & columnist

With Assembly elections only six months away, the government is in a quandary over the demand of Panchamashalis to be included in 2A category as it has been assigned 15 per cent reservation. Currently, they are in Category 3 which has a 5 per cent quota. Instead of taking an ad hoc decision, the government should refer the matter to the state's permanent backward classes commission. BJP cannot shrug off its dependence on the Lingayat vote. Even those speculating on the chief minister being replaced are suggesting the names of Lingayat leaders as his successor.

The issue of corruption and BBMP contractors' allegation of 40 per cent commission has already dented the paty's image. BJP, like Congress and JDS, has failed to check corruption. What is distressing is the allegation of corruption in the appointment of vice-chancellors of universities.

The silver lining is the Karnataka High Court judgement striking down the constitution of the Anti-Corruption Bureau and the concomitant devaluation of the Lok Ayukta by the Siddaramaiah government.

If BJP ministers have ducked allegations of corruption, it is because many opposition leaders and legislators themselves reek of it. As one who has observed the political scene in the state over the last 50 years, I am amused at the way some of our past leaders are being placed on pedestals.

The government itself has provided grist to the opposition mill by its colossal wrongdoing as in the case of recruitment of police sub-inspectors, appointment of shady politicians as heads of boards, corporations and urban bodies and giving key positions to corrupt officials etc.

Bommai has shown that he is a well-meaning leader who has been circumscribed by the venal political culture established by so-called national and local parties and political movements.

Mere dependence on the charisma of the Prime Minister and changing the leadership without providing a clean administration will take BJP nowhere in the next Assembly elections. It should weigh its triumph in Gujarat against the defeat in Himachal Pradesh, a state with a 95 per cent Hindu population.

With the Kerala CPM leadership showing a green signal for including Saji Cherian in the cabinet entry, the state government has decided to hold the swearing-in on January 4. However, Governor Arif Mohammad Khan has sought legal advice on the government's proposal to reinduct Cherian

MAJOR SHAKEUP LIKELY IN TS BJP

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Hyderabad

A change of guard in the BJP's State leadership appears imminent as the party's central leadership is likely to induct Bandi Sanjay Kumar into the Union cabinet in February or March, according to reliable sources.

The one to replace him may not come as a surprise to many as rumours have been doing the rounds in the party circles that Huzurabad MLA Eatala Rajender may be appointed as the president of the State BJP or he may be projected as chief ministerial face in the run-up to the Assembly elections in 2023.

The choice may ruffle some feathers in the party, but it appears to be a well-deliberated step. There are quite a few contenders for the post like BJP national vice president DK Aruna, former MP AP Jithender Reddy and former MP Komatireddy Rajagopal Reddy, but the leadership is reportedly considering Eatala Rajender's name.

BJP Telangana chief Bandi Sanjay Kumar takes part in Ayyappa Swamy Maha Padipooja in Kukatpally on Saturday | EXPRESS

The party's central leadership seems to prefer Eatala Rajender due to many reasons. He not only possesses enormous experience as a legislator, finance and health minister in the Chandrasekhar Rao cabinet, but has been seen as the 'Vibhushan' in the BRS' kingdom, who revolted against his party supremo and joined forces with the saffron brigade.

He hails from the BC (Mudiraj) community which has a considerable electorate to turn the tide in favour of any party, and he is one who appeals to the masses irrespective of caste.

The party leaders have not confirmed these developments, as they feel that such a decision has never been taken in the party till now.

Job fraud busted, UP man cons 50,000 aspirants

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bhubaneswar

A 25-year-old from Uttar Pradesh who had allegedly cheated about 50,000 youths to the tune of ₹15 crore in promise for jobs was arrested by Economic Offences Wing (EOW) of Crime Branch in what is billed as India's biggest employment fraud that used technology for the con job.

Zafar Ahmed, a native of Aligarh and an engineer by profession, was held by the EOW from UP. He is accused of defrauding youngsters across states such as Odisha, West Bengal, Andhra Pradesh, Karnataka and Gujarat.

Led by Ahmed, the scam was executed by a group of tech-savvy engineers from UP with help of website developers. The core group of fraudsters was assisted by about 50 call centre employees drawn mostly from Jamalpur and Aligarh who were reportedly paid ₹15,000 per month.

According to EOW IG Jai Narayan Pankaj, the accused used more than 1,000 fake SIM cards and 530 mobile phones to cheat the job aspirants. To keep the police at bay, they contacted the aspirants only on WhatsApp voice calls.

The fraudsters used to save their mobile phone numbers using the names of fake schemes to instil confidence among the job aspirants if they tried to verify the contact details on Truecaller.

By opening about 100 mule bank accounts, the group withdrew the cheated money only through Jan Seva Kendras by using quick response (QR) codes. There are many Jan Seva Kendras in UP and the accused withdrew the cash by paying 10 per cent commission to the officials.

Each job aspirant was charged ₹3,000 to ₹50,000 towards registration, interview and training purposes. The fraud amount could be much more than ₹15 crore and investigation is continuing to unearth more details, said Pankaj.

"EOW registered a case in this connection in September and has been investigating it since the last three months. The racket was active since 2020," he said.

Kerala issues revised order to acquire 2,570 acres

ABHILASH CHANDRAN
@Kottayam

IN a major boost to the proposed Sabarimala International Greenfield Airport in Erumeli, the state government has issued a modified order sanctioning the acquisition of land for the project. As per the new government order (GO) issued on Friday, a total of 1,039.876 hectares (2,570 acres) of land in Erumeli South and Manimala villages in Kanjirappally taluk will be acquired for the construction and development of the airport, which includes an additional 307 acres outside the Cheruvally estate.

The order stated that the sanction was subjected to two conditions. Firstly, a social impact assessment (SIA) study as contemplated in the Right to Fair Compensation and Transparency in Land Acquisition, Rehabilitation and Resettlement Act (LARRA), 2013, will be conducted and an expert committee would be constituted to evaluate the SIA study report. Secondly, the final order to proceed with the land acquisition will be issued only after getting site clearance from the director general of Civil Aviation (DGCA) and the Airport Authority of India. It was in June 2020 that the state issued the first order to acquire the entire 2,263.18 acres of land in Cheruvally Estate for the project, which is presently under the possession of K P Yohannan's Believers' Church.

However, the ownership of the land is in dispute and the Kottayam district administration had filed a civil case in a Sub-Court in Pala against Believers' Church, claiming its ownership. The hearing in the case has been completed and it is pending judgement.

FOUR people died and eight others were injured after fireworks stored by a shopkeeper in his house for New Year sale exploded around 3am on Saturday in Mohanur in Namkkal district. MOTTLED WOOD OWL SPOTTED IN HAMPI

Hampi: A mottled wood owl, considered as a wooded bird, is now an addition to the Hampi Daroji bird list. The bird was recorded by two birders in the region. The two bird watchers — Santosh Hampi and Shabarish G A — who were birding on Matanga hills, had a big surprise when they spotted a big owl, which was a big surprise for them. "We were looking at small birds, when we sighted a huge one moving above our heads. It appeared very unusual and we zoomed our tele lenses and were about to establish it was an owl. Later, we realised that it was a mottled wood owl and we could not believe it. The bird is a woody species and we did not expect to find it here," Santosh Hampi told TNIE. The ashy coloured owl has a mark between its eye brows on its forehead and always prefers the woody region and is synonymous to the name 'wood owl.' However, the was earlier sighting by Samad Kottur, author of Birds of Hampi, in 2015. "I had seen it and tried to take a picture of it in 2015, but it was not very clear," said Samad Kottur. ENS

Media plays greater role than Oppn in these testing times, says Kharge

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

AICC president Mallikarjun Kharge here on Saturday said that though there are instances of corporates taking over media houses in a tactful manner, its role is primordial in safeguarding democracy.

"Media plays a pivotal role (in safeguarding democracy) and if you (media) commit mistakes by not safeguarding democratic values, the society will be at the receiving end," he observed while speaking after receiving the 'Person of the Year' award at the Press Club of Bengaluru on Saturday.

"More than us (Opposition parties), the media has a greater role to play in these testing times," he said.

A few corporates take little stake and then gradually swallow the entire media industry, he said. "But independent journalists should not sit back... instead they should uphold the ethos of journalism either directly or indirectly and not fall prey to vested interests," he said.

As hundreds of villagers gathered at the place to watch the operation, the tusker due to huge noise started to run amok in panic in the agriculture fields of Chikka Beechanahalli, Dodda Beechanahalli, Hallada Manuganahalli and neighbouring villages. As the tusker ran in panic, the foresters and veterinarians who followed the tusker failed to hit the tranquiliser dart.

But at around 2.30 pm, the foresters darted the tranquiliser to the tusker which was camping at a farm belonging to farmer Vasu at Hallada Manuganahalli village in HD Kote taluk.

TECH-ENABLED INDUSTRIES TO DRIVE HIRING IN 2023

WITH the emergence of next-gen technologies, India is well on its way to transitioning into a digital-first economy. Undoubtedly, new tech brings with it demand for niche skills to support these transformation agendas, which will drive hiring in 2023.

From the Great Resignation to evolving work models, the Indian job market has witnessed a whirlwind of changes amidst unpredictable macroeconomic developments. Encouraged by the shifting power dynamic between the employee and employer, 2023 will see recruiters continuing the focus on optimising hiring processes, addressing the demand-supply talent gap, and employee engagement and retention activities.

As per the foundit Insights Tracker (fit), the first half of 2022 saw an 8% growth in hiring, followed by a 3% degrowth in the second half, owing to the global economic scenario. Despite this drop, hiring in several sectors, such as BFSI, Retail, and Automotive, is expected to grow by 20% in the coming year.

The fast-paced adoption of AI, cloud, cybersecurity, blockchain, quantum computing, and process automation by the BFSI sector has resulted in a massive recruitment momentum in the industry. In fact, in India, the sector is expected to employ over a million professionals with skillsets relevant to these areas by 2023. The emergence of neo banks, embedded finance and metaverse banking has further added to this growth spike.

When it comes to retail, the new era of social commerce and quick commerce is leading to an increased focus on enhancing customer experience through tech-enabled and hyper-personalised offerings. This trend will undoubtedly create new roles in the sector.

Moreover, the reliance on Big Data to unearth insights that are crucial for customised experiences and identifying measurable business growth metrics is on the rise. This will fuel the adoption of retail-tech and analytics and lead to increased demand for data scientists and data engineers.

The growth in the automotive sector has been tremendous and is set to hit a record high with the growing adoption of EVs and smart mobility solutions. With the shortage of semiconductor chips dampening overall production globally, companies are looking at setting up factories in India to support the sector which will create numerous ancillary jobs. Additionally, as connected, and sustainable mobility gains massive popularity, demand for skilled talent and hiring for blue-collar roles in the automotive aftermarket sector will continue to register consistent growth.

The Indian IT sector, too, has had its share of ups and downs over the past few years, with a prolonged recovery period ahead. As the impact of the ongoing global recession takes time to taper, hiring in the first half of 2023 is expected to be muted. However, given the anticipated increase in cost-efficiency-driven outsourcing by global companies, the industry is expected to pick up pace in hiring by the second half of next year. This growing demand for candidates will also be fuelled by the expansive adoption of automation by Indian companies and the setting up of GCCs in the country. Interestingly, despite the tepid growth in recruitment, certain niche roles in IT have been and will continue to be in demand. Also, as the nation gears up to embrace 5G, hiring for telecom professionals will spill over into the coming year.

No doubt, hyper-automation will drive business growth in 2023, and the need for expertise in AI/ML, cloud, data analytics, and digital optimisation will drive the demand for a new breed of digital native workers like never before. In fact, the growing use of digital will drive demand for digital marketers, influencer marketing professionals and related roles as well. While the popularity of HR-tech and workforce management will require more SAAS solutions leading to higher demand for professionals in the field.

In 2023, even as newer jobs and roles emerge, organisations will continue to place emphasis on upskilling existing employees and finding the right talent for roles in emerging tech. Job creation and thrust towards increased formalisation will continue to be a priority in India. Amidst this, ensuring minimal displacement of the current workforce will also be a critical task that private and public sector employers will address.

2023: WELCOME TO THE WHAT IF YEAR

THE THIRD EYE

SHANKKAR AIYAR
Author of The Gated Republic, Aadhaar: A Biometric History of India's 12 Digit Revolution, and Accidental India
shankkar.aiyar@gmail.com

EVERY year arrives with two distinct emotions -- relief and hope. Relief stems from the idea that the milestone passed signals change. And hope, often an ephemeral sentiment, springs from what Aristotle called the waking dream.

As we enter into 2023, the trillion-dollar poser is: what does the year come bearing, what does it promise? Typically, a new year is ushered in with a parade of predictions by soothsayers and pundits. It doesn't quite matter that quite often the crystal ball conjectures dissipate midway. Daniel Kahneman observed: "The illusion that we understand the past fosters overconfidence in our ability to predict the future."

The quest to know what lies ahead is an existential imperative for the human psyche. In 2023, expectations and the preferred phraseology of predictability, stability, and sustainability are challenged by a confluence of disruptive factors -- geopolitics, fears of recession, Covid-19 variants, shifting demography and climate change. The sustenance of hope and emergence of fears are two sides of a coin riveted to the potential trajectory of tectonic shifts which could follow.

The top X factor triggering the 'What If' question, as we begin the year, is the re-emergence of Covid-19 infections and the threat to lives and livelihoods. In the past two months, the count of daily cases as per data published by WHO has risen from 2.5 million to 3.8 million – mind you while the surge in China is in the headlines, the WHO figures reflect cases from other countries. Travel restrictions have limited utility as history reveals the virus doesn't respect national boundaries.

Typically viruses mutate in an effort to evade immunity. The Centre for Disease Control in the United States has listed 17 active sub-variants of Omicron. While the BF7 variant is visibly active in India and elsewhere, in the US it is the XBB 1.5 variant which triggered rising hospitalizations accounts for over 40% of the infections. It is true deaths are low, but it's early days YET. Much depends on the quantum of testing and genome tracking to assess the efficacy of vaccines as also for policy measures. The reappearance of masks and mock drills reflects the spectre of fears.

The global economy is scarcely in a position to deal with a redux of 2020 or another crisis. The struggle to contain inflation and sustain growth represents the second 'What If' factor. Central bankers flying blind to atone for past sins are hiking rates at the fastest pace in decades. The consequence is manifest. The $ 200 billion fall in Elon Musk's wealth triggered voyeurism but the fact is globally billionaires lost $ 1.4 trillion as indices slid – the NASDAQ by 33% and the S&P 500 by nearly 20%.

In fact, globally, 61 of the 87 stock indices reported negative returns for 2022. On Friday, India's Nifty50 ended the year with a gain of 4.33 – the seventh successive year in positive. The 'what if' question haunts Indian investors as FIIs pulled out over $ 16.5 billion in equity as fixed income rates rose in developed markets.

The rising cost of capital is showing up in data on trade, national debt and global growth. A recent UNCTAD report states the slowdown in trade "that began in the second half of the year is expected to worsen in 2023 as geopolitical tensions and tight financial conditions persist". Five out of seven G7 countries and seven of the G20 economies report debt-to-GDP ratios of over 100%.

Ratings agency Moody's expects "real GDP growth of the G-20 economies to decelerate to 1.3% in 2023 and adds that "over one-third of the 143 sovereigns we rate will have economies that are at least 8% smaller in real terms in 2023 than we expected before the pandemic. The IMF and World Bank have trimmed the forecast for every major economy. Indeed, the World Bank has in a recent paper asked the question 'Is a global recession imminent?' The answer, as Bob Dylan would say, is blowing in the wind.

Straddling the spectrum -- the possible return of the life-threatening pandemic and the impact of the recession on livelihoods -- is the lethal potential of uncertain geopolitics. There is no visible end to the war in Ukraine – which has exposed and exacerbated economic vulnerabilities -- and intelligence reports suggest Russia is readying 200,000 troops for a major 'ground offensive' by the spring of 2023. If and when the escalation takes shape, it threatens to widen the rift between global blocs and expand the duration of inflation and slowdown.

And it is not just the Ukraine war that is in play in the geopolitical landscape. There is also China's declared aim to annex of Taiwan. At the October party congress China's president Xi Jinping mentioned Taiwan 21 times in his speech, promised to never "renounce the use of force" and underlined the agenda of national reunification as an "unshakeable commitment." Game theorists are computing the probability of when this could be – reports including one citing US Navy Naval Operations Chief Mike Gilday suggest it could be as early as the end of 2023 to thwart the next elections in Taiwan. The disruptions are in the realm of the plausible and are pregnant with grave implications.

Karl Von Clausewitz once said that although humans long for clarity and certainty "our nature finds uncertainty fascinating". Welcome to 2023, the What If Year.

"For last year's words belong to last year's language and next year's words await another voice"

T.S. Eliot

WHEN Eliot wrote those words, he perhaps had political leaders and the fair-weather rich in mind. For, most of them love to forget what they said in the past to justify what they say in the present so that they can ignore that again in the future. As we enter 2023, India is expecting a new grammar, innovative adjectives and new nouns in place of old ones to define the New Year and the years thereafter. If 2022 was a year of aspirations and desperation, 2023 is likely to be a convoluted cocktail of confrontation and consensus. Extravagant ceremonies of G20 in Y23 would bring consensus over a display of India's great heritage and culture. The word secularism will vanish from the political vocabulary. Nationalism will find a place of pride. Assembly elections will further sharpen confrontationist politics. Good economics will surrender space to profitable politics. The entertainment industry is unlikely to exploit sacred symbols to maximise box office revenue liberally, and avaricious Industry tycoons will not have a free run on the banks. But the future doesn't prevent anyone from committing to New Year Resolutions for themselves and others. So here goes:

Delivery of Minimum Government and Maximum Governance: For the new to be created, the old has to be destroyed. Prime Minister to review, revise and re-engineer his state craft and social engineering. He could begin by junking forever the slogan with which he began his first Prime Ministerial stint: Maximum Governance with Minimum Government. Eight years on, the old ways of working of old India haven't changed. The country's babudom hasn't shrunk. Nor has government expenditure. It has risen from around 12.5 per cent in 2016 to over 16 per cent in 2021. The number of Union Ministers hasn't come down either, but expenditure on their staff and offices has grown exponentially. Undoubtedly, governance has improved, but its cost has burgeoned. It is the most top heavy establishment since 2000, with a large number of retired civil servants getting extensions multiple times either in government or heading newly-created tribunals, commissions, and expert groups. According to a published report, "the payout to government employees has doubled since 2016". Even the state governments are indulging in liberal spending on non-productive activities. The debilitating Rule of the Babus still survives and thrives. In the Naya Bharat of 2023, this needs to be tamed. For that, the establishment has to retrieve itself from the Goblin mode.

SOURAV ROY

Khaas CEOs Out, Aam Workers In: We live in an Atmanirbhar Bharat, we are told, where Rajpath has been renamed Kartavya Path to indicate the definitive act of setting aside the yolk of slavery. Yet we have new imperialists amongst us, India Inc, whose leaders individually made more money than the average Indian. Income inequalities have never been as widespread as last year. According to published estimates, just one per cent of Indians own 33 per cent of the national wealth. The BJP government not only wooed them with liberal fiscal concessions but also feted them on various platforms. Those in distress were allowed to slip through the Indian Bankruptcy Code. Yet they were found missing when it came to the creation of extra jobs, offering a better working environment or even raising wages in proportion to the perks and salaries the promoters and CEOs were carrying home themselves. Even the Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh chief Mohan Bhagwat stated in 2019 that "despite tremendous economic progress, the wealth of the world is being controlled by a few". India Inc could declare the era of privileged and pampered CEOs to be over and that of the Aam wealth creator to be in. Employees should be First and Promoters Last.

Khelo Bharat, Hello India Inc: Everyone, including the International Olympic Committee, which amended its motto in 2021 to add the word together to Faster, Higher, Stronger, knows sports unites people and breaks caste and community barriers. It's both positively competitive and inclusive. Except in India, where its commercialisation has divided sports into classes. In many states, there are more golf courses than football or hockey grounds for training youngsters. On the other hand, athletes coming from the middle class and poor class are struggling for both national recognition and monetary value for their achievements. A gold medal at the Olympics doesn't get even one-tenth of the money which a Virat Kohli gets after becoming a man of the series. Indian corporates are outbidding each other in purchasing cricketers at costs upwards of Rs 16 crore, but none of them would pay P T Usha even Rs 1 crore to train ten more athletic stars like her. In 2023, let India Inc adopt a team each from hockey, wrestling, football, swimming and archery. That would be enough to make Bharat win 100 gold medals in the Olympics and ensure mass participation.

Boycott Boycotts: Entertainment, again, is a great unifier. In every form, from film to folk art, pure entertainment brings joy to everyone, irrespective of ideology or identity. For the past few years, it has acquired a divisive drift due to excessive and obsessive social and religious scrutiny, with #Boycott-Bollywood trending on social media almost every day. Every dress, dialogue and song is seen through the prism of communal convenience or political pulse. There is a widespread feeling that every symbol of Indian faith and heritage is made the subject of ridicule. Let Indian cine moguls take a leaf from Hollywood's playbook in 2023 and minimise the use of religion, sex and violence against women and children. Boycott boycotts should be the essence of this new cinema and the audience that consumes it. Dump Chuck de India for Chak de Bharat.

Naya Bharat Banao. India Bhaghao: Seventy-five years after Independence is enough time to adapt to the challenge of a new society which is looking for a new, non-Nehruvian model of culture and politics. The Ram Mandir movement led by L K Advani led to the emergence of a political Hindu who shunned the Congress brand of secularism. The idea of India has become a symbol of anything which is against Indian traditions. India is the only case of unity in millions of diversities. But the Indian Constitution that defines "India that is Bharat" promotes two different identities. Let Modi take credit for dropping India and retaining just Bharat. Let India, a British noun, be buried, and a new Bharat emerge, which has no caste, community or class.

Let Atmanirbhar Bharat also be a Bharat with Atmasamman.

THE BIG PICTURE: BOLLYWOOD IN 2022

NAMRATA JOSHI
Consulting Editor

AS 2022 draws to a close, the Hindi film industry has suffered yet another colossal setback, its final blow for this year. Its most prolific and consistently successful director, Rohit Shetty, has delivered a dead-on-arrival Cirkus, ringing in more despair than hope for an already beleaguered Bollywood as it enters 2023.

Back in September, just before the release of Ayan Mukerji's Brahmastra: Part One—Shiva, filmmaker Anurag Kashyap told me how much he wanted the film to strike the elusive gold at the box office. "I prayed for its success even in my dreams," he said, "One successful tentpole film brings confidence and sets the money in circulation within the industry for all kinds of movies to get made, including my own," he said.

Brahmastra did bring in some much-needed relief to Bollywood, raking in Rs 306 crore gross as per Mumbai-based media consulting firm Ormax Media's October box office report. However, the film's moderate success was an exception rather than the rule in 2022 that has mostly been about much-touted films, riding on big stars and bigger budgets, failing to bring audiences to the theatres.

This, after a historic high in 2019 when the gross box office receipts in India (for films across all languages, including Hollywood) had broken the Rs 10,000 crore mark, as per Ormax Media. Hindi films had led with a 44% share of gross domestic box office, Hollywood (in all dubbed language versions) stood second with 15%, followed by Tamil and Telugu films, at 13% each.

In stark contrast, barely five Hindi films in 2022, apart from Brahmastra, fared well: The Kashmir Files, Drishyam 2, Gangubai Kathiawadi and Bhool Bhulaiyaa 2 with Jugjugg Jeeyo touted as a decent earner. "These have been the odd ones out amid below-par performers. The lean patch is continuing," said Shailesh Kapoor, founder and CEO, Ormax Media. Lucrative deals through premieres on streaming platforms that helped producers make partial recovery during the pandemic also crashed with films not getting sold as easily.

Movie-watching culture in India has been driven by the top stars, with their loyal fans queuing up on the 'first day, first show' and the first weekend driving the bulk of the business. "Openings of most big stars have dropped to 40-60% of their pre-pandemic openings, indicating that star power is diminishing," said Kapoor. They are not necessarily ensuring hits despite accounting for 30-40% of a film's cost. "They have devalued themselves. They have lost the magic and the mystique by being desperate for attention on social media," said TV producer, director, and author Nasreen Munni Kabir. "The stars in the South don't flaunt wealth, cars, or fashion. They live for their films. In Bollywood, stars have turned even coming out of the airport into content [uploaded on social media]," said filmmaker Vasan Bala.

Bollywood has also had to contend with a tough challenge from South cinema. 37% of the Hindi box office in 2022 was generated through Hindi dubbed versions of Telugu, Tamil & Kannada language films. The biggest hit in 2022 is the Kannada film KGF: Chapter 2, amassing an eye-popping Rs 970 crore at the domestic box office in all the versions, followed by Telugu RRR at Rs 869 crore, Kannada Kantara with Rs 346 crore and Tamil Ponniyin Selvan: PS I with Rs 323 crore. Hindi cinema comes way down at the fifth spot with Brahmastra.

Good actors, directors and writers are moving to stream platforms. However, the OTT revolution is not about the revival of meaningful content or the freedom of expression but about survival, catching eyeballs, and creating addiction

Hollywood has been a tough challenger too. This year, films like Top Gun Maverick, Dr Strange in Multiverse of Madness, The Batman, and Avatar: The Way of the Water fared better than many big Hindi releases.

Bans, too, emerged as a bane. Timed with the Laal Singh Chaddha release, #BoycottAamir began to trend on Twitter. The first big film of 2023, Pathaan, faces music over a song. "Political dialogue is infecting the social and artistic sphere," said Desai. The backlash has also been growing since the death of Sushant Singh Rajput in 2020.

A lot of good actors, directors and writers are moving to stream platforms that are green-lighting fresher content. However, according to filmmaker Dibakar Banerjee, the OTT revolution is not about the revival of meaningful content or the freedom of expression but about survival, catching eyeballs, and creating addiction; the focus is on binge-watching. His own Netflix original Tees is stuck in limbo because of the platform's worries about how it might be received in the current socio-political situation in India.

Many feel that the Bollywood bubble had to burst one day. Still, they are hopeful for a change for the better with a systemic re-haul and radical makeover that involves rationalising budgets, reorienting the star system, giving script-writers their due, and also a correction in ticket pricing. "There will be a degree of trial and error, but Bollywood needs to put out a lot of content of all kinds and with varied marketing strategies," said film distributor and exhibitor Akshaye Rathi. "It's not about one push, one day, one scene, one dialogue, one film. It's a Leviathan we are up against," said screenwriter Atika Chohan, looking ahead at 2023, adding, "Bollywood will have to embrace a new normal." Will it, though?

India & global emissions

India is effectively the world's fourth largest economy with the country being the fifth largest emitter of greenhouse gases, accounting for about 5% of global emissions. India's emissions increased by 65% between 1990 and 2005 and are projected to grow by 70% by 2020. On a per capita basis, India's emission is well below the world average and 95% below the US. India has many policies not particularly driven by climate concerns, but they contribute to mitigation by reducing or avoiding GHG emissions.

Pele, the king

Pele, who rose from barefoot poverty to become one of the greatest footballers set records that are simply staggering: he is the only player who won three World Cups. He is also Brazil's top scorer with 95 goals. He put Brazil on the world map as the land of football, a beautiful game. His presence on the field will always be remembered for centuries.

Interest rate hike

The government has raised interest rates on eight of the 12 small savings schemes by 20 to 110 basis points for January-March 2023. It is the second successive quarter that the government has made selective hikes in small savings rates. Many experts believe that the increases were lower than expected, given the rise in interest rates and high inflation in recent quarters. However, it is a saving grace for senior citizens, who solely depend on interest income and put all their hard-earned money in one basket.

Cricketer Rishabh Pant is lucky to survive and tell the world that he dozed off while driving, resulting in the big crash. Sleepiness is one of the causes of early morning accidents on highways. Night driving is hazardous. Stopping and cautioning the driver at suitable intervals can reduce the chances of an accident. It is easier to doze off if the driver is alone. We must educate drivers on this, besides other hazards of night driving.

Cough syrup deaths

Ref. Quick Take column 'Prevent drug adulteration.' In a country where food adulteration is taken seriously, the news about adulteration in children's cough syrups manufactured in India is shocking. During Covid times, India won accolades globally for our vaccines which were exported to many deserving poor countries. The cough syrup episode is a taint on our reputation. The offenders deserve severe punishment.

A SERIES OF BIG-TICKET EVENTS SET TO UNFOLD AS WE USHER IN 2023. WISHING OUR READERS A VERY HAPPY AND PROSPEROUS NEW YEAR

IDEA WHOSE TIME HAS COME

G-20 EVENTS

Beginning December 1, India's freshly acquired global stature found a strong echo in its assuming the presidency of the most powerful club of 20 countries. The theme of India's G20 Presidency for one year is 'Vasudhaiva Kutumbakam' or 'One Earth One Family One Future.' As the nation gets ready to hold the summit due likely in October-November 2023, the country will organise more than 200 events spread across major cities as part of the summit. The list of invitees will include the permanent G20 members, others and around a dozen world bodies, including the UN, the IMF, the World Trade Organisation and WHO.

CRICKET WORLD CUP

Come October-November, India will host the 13th edition of the Cricket World Cup, a quadrennial One Day International cricket tournament contested by men's national teams and organised by the International Cricket Council. For the first time, the competition will be held entirely in India. India partially hosted three previous editions in 1987, 1996 and 2011. Originally, the tournament was proposed from February 9 to March 26 2023, but in July 2020, it was announced that the tournament would be delayed to an October-November window in the wake of disruption of the qualification schedule due to the Covid pandemic. England are the defending champions, having won the previous edition in 2019.

RAM TEMPLE IN AYODHYA

After years of litigation and communal strife, the Supreme Court in 2019 paved the way for the construction of Lord Ram temple in Ayodhya. The construction of the temple is expected to be completed by December 2023 and Lord Ram is expected to be seated in the sanctum sanctorum by Makar Sankranti festival in January 2024, according to Shri Ram Janmabhoomi Teerth Kshetra Trust general secretary Champat Rai. The estimated cost of the grand temple is `1,800 crore. The trust, formed on the Supreme Court's orders for the construction of the temple has approved its rules and the manual.

FIFA WOMEN'S FOOTBALL WC

Scheduled to be the ninth edition of the World Cup, the quadrennial international women's football championship will be contested by the women's national association football teams organised by FIFA. The tournament will be jointly hosted by Australia and New Zealand and is due from July 20 to August 20, 2023. It will be the first FIFA Women's World Cup to have more than one host nation, and also be the first senior World Cup of either gender to be held across multiple confederations. It will be the first to feature the expanded format of 32 teams, from the previous 24, replicating the format used for the men's WC.

NEW PARLIAMENT HOUSE

It's virtually a race against time to complete the new Parliament building. The government is keen to open it in the budget session that starts in January, and with a break in the middle, goes on till March. It is a part of the ambitious Rs 13,500-crore Central Vista Redevelopment Project. Sources said that shifting to the new building in the first half of the budget session in February might be an ambitious target. However, lawmakers can hope to easily shift to the new building in the second half of the Budget session. The Central Public Works Department is the nodal agency for the new building.

POLL HEAT TO RISE

For a country where democracy is chaotic, cacophonous and full of colours, 2023 is going to be full of it. As many as 10 states, from East to West and centre to North and South, are going to the polls. These are Tripura, Mizoram, Meghalaya, Nagaland, Telangana, Karnataka, Rajasthan, Madhya Pradesh, Chhattisgarh and in all likelihood, J&K. These polls will come a few months ahead of the general election in 2024 and will therefore indicate the popularity of the Modi government. These polls may also reflect how real the prospect of the Opposition unity could be, depending much on how the Congress performs in its strongholds and elsewhere.

CORONATION OF KING CHARLES-III

The coronation will take place on Saturday, May 6, 2023, at Westminster Abbey in London. During the ceremony, the King will be crowned alongside Camilla, the Queen Consort. The plans, known under the code name Operation Golden Orb, are a closely guarded secret. A coronation involves a symbolic religious ceremony and the act of placing a crown on a monarch's head. It formalises the monarch's role as the head of the Church of England and marks the handing over of title and powers to them. Coronations have remained much the same for more than 1,000 years and it is the only remaining ceremony of its type in Europe.

Modi cabinet reshuffle on the cards ahead of crucial polls

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ New Delhi

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi is likely to reshuffle his council of ministers between January 15 and 25 to prepare the government for the assembly elections in 10 states and the 2024 general elections.

Sources said the Prime Minister is likely to induct some Members of Parliament who have been performing well and belong to the poll-bound states. The Prime Minister is expected to undertake the exercise before the commencement of the Budget Session of Parliament.

According to sources, new ministers are likely to be inducted from Telangana and the four north eartern states - Tripura, Manipur, Mizoram and Nagaland, where assembly elections are due in 2023. There are reports that some non-performing ministers will face the axe.

It is also being said that the ministers dropped from the central cabinets would be entrusted with the major organizational tasks the way Mukhtar Naqbi, Ravi Shankar Prasad and others have recently been entrusted in the party.

The Saffron party, which is said to be following the Hindu calendar and other astro beliefs, will make a reshuffle after January 14 when the kharmas (inauspicious time as per the Hindu calendar) ends.

A BJP leader said, "What will be new in it if it happens? Reshuffle is a routine matter. Every time a minister is dropped or a new member, such a reshuffle had taken place in 2021 also in which some ministers were dropped and some new faces were inducted in the cabinet. This kind of exercise is carried out depending upon the need of government at the Centre with the desire of the Prime Minister, who heads the government".

But what is expected this time is the induction of around 4 to 5 MPs, whose performances in the party have been found good and who hold great influence in their respective areas.

"Some of them are said to be from Telangana and Gujarat whose induction in the cabinet cannot be ruled out. They carry a lot of influences in some particular sections of voters", hinted a senior source. Party sources said that before the cabinet reshuffle, the party is expected to take a final decision on the continuation of JP Nadda as national president.

Those working in rlys must shed colonial mindset, says minister

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ New Delhi

UNION Railway Minister Ashwini Vaishnaw on Saturday said that the transformation in railways is imperative to the transformation in the country.

He said, "The Prime Minister always says that if a country has to be transformed, then the railway has to be transformed first. Without transformation in railway, the country cannot be transformed".

Speaking at a farewell function of railway officials, the Railway Minister said that those working in railways should shed the colonial mindset.

"The day the General Manager starts welding, there will be real changes in the railways," the minister said.

"Till 3 years ago, I used to do welding because I had to keep myself grounded. We should not forget what we are," he added.

Striking the chord with everyone present at the event, Vaishnaw, who has also been a technocrat-turned- bureaucrat and now a bureaucrat- turned-politician, further said, "We should consolidate all the changes that have taken place in railways in the past 8 years with an aim to bring a phase of massive growth in the next 8 years."

Motivating the officials at the event, he said, "Our department is about 'nation first, always first'. And we should not forget what we are to the nation."

RAHUL GANDHI

MILES COVERED, AND MORE TO GO FOR 'MARKET OF LOVE'

PREETHA NAIR @ New Delhi

EXPRESS ILLUSTRATION

LAST week, pictures of Rahul Gandhi paying tributes at Rajghat, clad in a T-shirt in the biting cold of Delhi, raised more political temperature than he could manage while traversing 3,000km during the 100 days of his Bharat Jodo Yatra. However, he did court a fair share of controversies during his cross-country march in the last three months that have revitalised 'brand Rahul Gandhi' ahead of the 2024 polls.

In the most recent war of words, senior party colleague Salman Khurshid likened Rahul to Lord Ram earlier this week, giving enough fodder to his political adversaries in the BJP to launch a scathing attack on the Congress.

Though Rahul's campaign managers vehemently deny that the yatra aims to carry out an image makeover, party leaders do agree that it has given him more mass appeal and helped in shedding the tag of the 'reckless politician' that was stuck on him for a long time. The BJP's constant taunts of him being a 'shahzada' (prince) and a reluctant prince of Indian politics have been dented quite a bit with this people-connect exercise.

At 52, Rahul is aware that he has to find his political groove now or perish along with the Congress.

As the son, grandson, and great-grandson of three former prime ministers — Rajiv Gandhi, Indira Gandhi and Jawaharlal Nehru — Rahul has been targeted for his inherited political legacy. He joined electoral politics in 2004, winning from the family's bastion, Amethi, in Uttar Pradesh. In 2013, he was appointed as the Congress vice president. The next year, the party saw its worst electoral performance, getting reduced to 44 seats in the general election. Rahul became the Congress president in December 2017, and the party saw signs of revival in 2018 with wins in Rajasthan, Madhya Pradesh and Chhattisgarh, though it lost some states.

However, after the rout of the Congress in the 2019 Lok Sabha elections, Rahul quit the president's post. Despite pressure from his party colleagues to return as the Congress chief, he remained adamant on his decision.

NEWSMAKER

Now that the party has a non-Gandhi at the helm of affairs at the national level, it may be looking to pit Rahul as the prime challenger to Prime Minister Narendra Modi in the Lok Sabha polls.

AICC general secretary Jairam Ramesh echoes the view. "The yatra has brought the real Rahul Gandhi to the fore," he said.

During his march, Rahul also turned philosophical in his quest to connect with people. "I let go of Rahul Gandhi years ago. He is in your mind, not mine," the Wayanad MP said at a public interaction. Rahul's comment that he is "opening a shop of love in the market of hatred" also seems to have struck a chord with people. Participation of celebrities from various fields, including actors Pooja Bhatt, Riya Sen and Amol Palekar, activists like Medha Patkar and Opposition leaders such as Shiv Sena's Aaditya Thackeray and NCP's Supriya Sule, and former RBI governor Raghuram Rajan, have given muscle to the yatra, which is expected to give a lifeline to the party's sagging fortunes.

However, only time will tell whether Rahul's footslogging will be a game changer for the party in the coming two years, which come packed with Assembly elections and the crucial Lok Sabha polls.

One of the major criticisms faced by Rahul has been distancing the yatra from electoral calculations. While many observers feel that it was an ill-conceived move by him to skip the Gujarat poll campaign, the win in Himachal Pradesh came as a saving grace for the party.

Though Rahul has emerged as a staunch challenger to the BJP's Hindutva politics through the rally, he has uphill tasks ahead after the yatra winds up on January 26 in Jammu and Kashmir. Questions are being raised about whether Rahul can sustain the political momentum that he has achieved through the exercise. His sudden acts of disappearing from the radar have often landed the Congress in uncomfortable situations, and the cadre hopes that he emerges as the pivot of Opposition in the run-up to the 2024 elections. For now, he is basking in the balmy sunlight of popularity. So what if some days come covered with fog.

Sagarmala project moving at slow pace, says Parl panel; seeks report

PARVEZ SULTAN @ New Delhi

THE projects under one of the flagship programmes of the Centre — Sagarmala — are moving at slow pace as only about 25 per cent of total projects under the scheme are complete as of now.

The Parliamentary Committee on Transport, Tourism and Culture has taken cognizance of the 'slow progress' and sought a detailed report from the ministry of ports, shipping, and waterways or the delays. The panel also wants to know whether there has been cost escalation and time overrun as compared to original cost and timeline of the projects due to the holdup.

The Sagarmala was approved by the Union Cabinet in March 2015. PM Narendra Modi released the Sagarmala National Perspective Plan, to promote port-led development in the country through harnessing India's 7,500 km long coastline, 14,500 km of potentially navigable waterways and strategic location on key international maritime trade routes, in April 2016. The Centre approved 802 projects under the programme.

According to the panel's 327th report on 'connectivity and tourism facilities at port', out of 802 projects, 202 projects have been completed, 216 projects are under implementation while 384 are under various stages of development.

Noting that only about 25 per cent of the total projects under Sagarmala are complete, the panel has recommended accelerating the progress. "The panel expresses serious concern at the slow progress of work and recommends that Sagarmala, being a crucial step in the progress of India's shipping sector, which seeks to bring about port connectivity, needs to be expedited....," read the report of the panel headed by Rajya Sabha MP TG Venkatesh.

Punjab: Four-fold spike in drone sighting, 22 downed

254 drones spotted in 2022, while only 67 were sighted in 2021

HARPREET BAJWA @ Chandigarh

THERE has been a fourfold spike in the number of drones being sighted in Punjab coming from Pakistan to deliver narcotics, weapons, explosives and ammunition. From January 2022, around 254 drones were sighted of which 22 were shot down by BSF. Last year, 67 drones were spotted.

Sources said of the 254 drones spotted this year, BSF troopers fired at these drones on 226 occasions. As many as 22 drones were brought down and captured (nine were shot down and another 13 fell due to various reasons).

While 221 drone activities were detected inside the Indian territory and 22 inside Pakistan. Some 311 drones were spotted this year across the entire western border — Gujarat, Rajasthan, Punjab and Jammu and Kashmir. Last year, around 104 drone activities were recorded and 77 in 2020. Around 75% of sightings were in Punjab of the total drone activities reported along the western border this year. While in Punjab, as many as 133 drones coming from across the border were sighted by the BSF in 2020 and 2021, out of which 67 drones were sighted in 2021.

A senior BSF officer said each BSF 'hit' team at the border that brings down a drone through rifle firing or using jamming technology is rewarded with a cash incentive of Rs 1 lakh. "This incentive is meant to motivate the troopers battling the drone menace," said the officer. An awardee can be a single trooper or more than one on a case-by-case basis.

"There have been a few instances when the electronic devices deployed by the force in the border areas jammed the drones originating from Pakistan. Once the device got stationary in the air, it was shot down," said the officer.

"The BSF has deployed many quick position-changing 'hit' teams and 'depth patrols' in the border areas so that they can make maximum kills. And even if the drones escape after dropping the payload of drugs or arms, these teams ensure criminal elements are not able to pick it up," he said.

The Indian border force also seized 317 kg of heroin, 67 weapons and 850 rounds. Two Pakistani intruders were killed and 23 Pakistani nationals were apprehended in different incidents, said the officer.

Assam remerges 4 districts ahead of delimitation drive

PRASANTA MAZUMDAR @ Guwahati

AHEAD of the delimitation exercise in Assam, the state government on Saturday remerged four new districts with those which were bifurcated to create them.

After the government's decision, the governor issued orders for their merger with their original districts. A government notification said the decision was made for "administrative expediency and in the interest of public service".

Biswanath, Hojai, Bajali and Tamulpur are the four full-fledged districts merged with their original districts.

The notification also said the "administrative districts" of East Kamrup and South Kamrup were merged with their original districts — Kamrup (Metro) and Kamrup respectively.

Chief Minister Himanta Biswa Sarma said the decision was made as the Election Commission (EC) had enforced a ban on reshuffling administrative units in the state from January 1 ahead of the commencement of the delimitation exercise.

"This decision is not permanent. This is for a transition phase for administrative reasons and in the interest of Assam keeping in mind its future," Sarma told reporters without disclosing the reasons.

He said he had visited some of these districts when they were inaugurated and when he himself had to take this decision, there had to be some reasons or why the state government would take such a "big decision".

"We are sorry that we had to make this interim decision in a hurry. I seek forgiveness from the people of these four districts. Sometimes, you need to take some harsh decisions but we will return to people with dividends," the CM promised.

We are sorry that we had to make this interim decision in a hurry. I seek forgiveness from the people of these four districts. Sometimes, you need to take some harsh decisions but we will return to people with dividends

Himanta Biswa Sarma, Assam CM

He said the ministers would visit the four districts and explain to the public why this decision had to be made. He sought their cooperation. He also said that the government would review the decision at an appropriate time.

He said certain offices established in the four erstwhile districts would keep functioning.

"In some places, the offices of the deputy commissioners (district magistrates) are being constructed. The construction will continue. The DCs will keep serving but as Sub-Divisional Officer in-charge. Once they are transferred, senior ADCs will take over as SDO. They will do all the works which a DC does. We are doing this to ensure that people don't have to face hardship by going to the original districts for various works," Sarma said.

SC directs forming spl police units for motor accident claim cases

SHRUTI KAKKAR @ New Delhi

TO curb inordinate delays in disposal of the motor accident claims and to ensure their early initiation, the Supreme Court recently invoked its special powers under Article 142 to issue a slew of directions for immediate registration of the First Accident Report after a motor vehicle accident.

A bench of justices S Abdul Nazeer and J K Maheshwari directed the chief secretaries and DGPs of all states to develop a specialised unit within three months in every police station or at the town level to deal with such cases on priority and to post trained police personnel there.

"For the effective implementation of the MV Amendment Act and the Rules framed thereunder, the specified trained police personnel are required to be deputed to deal with the motor accident claim cases," the bench said.

The guidelines include registering an FIR, submitting the First Accident Report within 48 hours to the claims tribunal; and verifying vehicle's data and submitting report to the tribunal.

The directions were issued while considering a plea against the Allahabad High Court's dismissal of an appeal against an award of ₹32 lakh compensation passed by the Motor Accidents Claims Tribunal.

The TMC, too, has decided to initiate image makeover drive and significant announcement is likely to be made in the party's meet on January 2 where chief minister Mamata Banerjee will address a gathering.

C'garh govt gives its employees an option to choose between OPS & NPS

EJAZ KAISER @ Raipur

WITH the Union government reluctant to return the money deposited towards the New Pension Scheme (NPS), the Congress government gave the government employees an option to choose between the Old Pension Scheme(OPS) and NPS. However, those appointed after April 2022 will be the compulsory members of the OPS, a senior government official told this newspaper.

The Centre had during the Lok Sabha session previous month informed that there was no proposal under consideration to restore to OPS besides no planning or any arrangement to refund the amount contributed in NPS along with the accumulated payments or benefits over time. The chief minister Bhupesh Baghel decision to revive the OPS for the state government employees in his previous budget speech had received acclamation in the state however the Centre refused the state's demand to give back the amount of over ₹17,000 crore deposited in the NPS.

The state government had in May 2022 sent a proposal to the Pension Fund Regulatory and Development Authority for the withdrawal of ₹17,000 crore accrued under the National Pension Scheme since November 2004. The Baghel cabinet also decided that instead of November 1, 2004, the state employees will become members of the Chhattisgarh General Provident Fund (GPF) on April 1, 2022. The government has further presented an option to employees appointed before April 1, 2022, to either remain in the NPS or to join the OPS.

For this, the employees will have to submit an affidavit. If an employee opts for the OPS, he or she has to deposit the government's contribution and dividend in the NPS account from November 1, 2004 till March 31, 2022 to the state government's new GPF, the official said.

PENSION PERKS AND POLITICS

The Baghel government has tried to checkmate the Central govt by goving state employees to pick OPS or NPS

₹3 Lakh government employees can choose between the old pension scheme (OPS) and the new pension scheme (NPS)

₹17,000 Crore already desposited for the NPS may not be returned by the Centre

- Baghel govt say it is taking "a middle ground after the Centre refused to return the money deposited towards the (NPS)".
- Employees who joined between November 2004 and March 2022 will have to submit an affidavit to now opt for OPS
- Congress is betting big on bringing back OPS in the States that it

What is OPS?

Employees of the OPS are entitled to receive 50% of their last drawn basic salary plus a dearness allowance upon retirement, or their average wages over the previous ten months of employment. Employees under OPS are exempt from making pension contributions.

What is NPS?

In this NPS, those who work for the government contribute 10% of their base pay, while their employers can contribute up to 14%. Although some rules have changed, private sector employees are also able to actively participate in the NPS.

Raj Cong leaders meet, pro-Gehlot MLAs may take back resignations

RAJESH ASNANI @ Jaipur

AHEAD of the budget session of the Rajasthan assembly from January 23, a meeting between Speaker CP Joshi and Congress in-charge of the state Sukhwinder Singh Randhawa has set off buzz that the resignations submitted by over 90 pro-Gehlot MLAs on September 25 are being withdrawn.

Party sources said one reason to revoke the resignations is the hearing in the Rajasthan High Court on the issue on January 2. The BJP has asked the Speaker to accept the resignations which in effect will bring the Gehlot government to a minority. The plan to revoke the resignations is being described as a mockery of democracy by the BJP.

Over 90 MLAs of the Gehlot faction, who resigned after boycotting the Congress Legislature Party meeting on September 25, have now been asked to withdraw their resignations. Randhawa, in a meeting with the Speaker discussed how the dispute over resignations of the MLAs could be settled by citing the message of the Congress High Command. Randhawa also wanted to know the status of resignations and the technical aspects.

After a few days in Jaipur, Randhawa has returned to Delhi after taking feedback from all party leaders.

The BJP is raising questions as to why no decision has been taken even after three months of the resignations. A petition was filed in the high court on behalf of BJP MLA Rajendra Rathore, on which the Speaker has asked to clarify the situation through a notice to his secretary during the next hearing due January 2.

The second reason for withdrawing the resignation is that the assembly session will start in Rajasthan from January 23. As soon as the budget session begins, the BJP will ask the speaker to clarify the position on the resignations. On the BJP demand, Speaker Joshi will have to give a ruling in the assembly and there is a possibility of the Congress and the government getting cornered on this issue.

Just before Rahul Gandhi's Bharat Jodo Yatra entered Rajasthan, the Congress had arranged reconciliation between CM Gehlot and Sachin Pilot, after which the yatra was able to pass off peacefully.

CUET rollout, education overhaul marked 2022

KAVITA BAJELI-DATT @ New Delhi

THE maiden Common Universities Entrance Test (CUET), touted as a single-window solution to cumbersome college admissions, had a bumpy start in 2022, but the year belonged to the new National Education Policy overhauling the country's academic structure. Major promotion of mother tongue, including teaching engineering and medicine, and soon legal education, in local languages, immense flexibility to students by providing them multiple entry and exit in courses and easing PhD rules are sweeping measures that will change the face of education in the coming years.

The year also saw India's premier educational establishments – Indian Institutes of Technologies (IITs) and Indian Institutes of Managements (IIMs) — bettering their international rankings, paving the way for strengthening their global presence by opening up offshore campuses.

It will be two-way traffic as foreign universities open their campuses in India, making global standards in higher education affordable at home.

The coming year will focus on one of the major initiatives of the education ministry, the National Credit Framework (NCrF), for which Union Education Minister Dharmendra Pradhan launched a public consultation on October 19. The first-of-its-kind framework in India, NCrF, to be launched in 2023, aims to integrate academic education and skilling. It is a unified credit accumulation and transfer framework, which applies to school, higher and vocational education providing flexibility to students to pick their learning trajectories, as it allows for mid-way course correction or modifications according to their talents and interests.

YearEnder 2022

On the anvil is also the Higher Education Commission of India, for which a committee was set up to merge the University Grants Commission (UGC), All India Council for Technical Education (AICTE) and National Council for Teachers Education (NCTE). Though the proposal first came in 2018, it is one of the significant transformations suggested under NEP 2020. According to University Grants Commission Chairperson Prof M. Jagadesh Kumar, in 2022, the Commission introduced many initiatives and encouraged higher educational institutions (HEIs) to implement them effectively.

One such achievement was when several educational institutions registered for the Academic Bank of Credits (ABC), which paved the way for uploading students' credentials on the ABC Portal.

ABC is a virtual/digital storehouse that contains information on the credits earned by individual students throughout their learning journey. It will enable students to open their accounts and give multiple options for entering and leaving colleges or universities.

"With the enabling provision of allowing students to pursue two academic programmes simultaneously, the UGC has created multiple formal and informal learning pathways. UGC's Professor of Practice will pave the way to increase institution-industry collaborations," Prof. Kumar told this newspaper.

LOCAL BODY ELECTIONS

60-year-old 'sweeps' polls, becomes Gaya deputy mayor

RAMASHANKAR @ Patna

SHE has carried human excreta. She has swept streets. And sold lemons to make a living. Now, Chinta Devi is the new deputy mayor of Gaya town in Bihar. The 60-year-old, whose three sons are also safai karmacharis in the Gaya Municipal Corporation, won the recently-held civic polls with an overwhelming majority.

An MBBS student, Sannu Kumari, has also been elected as the chief councillor of Araria. She defeated the wife of former MP Sukhdeo Paswan by a huge margin.

The polls were held in two phases and results were announced on Friday. For Chinta Devi, it was her commitment to her work as a sweeper, particularly during the Covid-19 pandemic, that has won her immense respect among the residents. Though she retired from service with the municipal corporation two years ago, she has been active in social work, supported by former deputy mayor Mohan Shrivastava.

Chinta Devi, a widow, is illiterate and was initially hesitant to file her nomination for the post of deputy mayor, but several people, including the union representing the civic body's sweepers, persuaded her to shed her inhibitions and jump into the fray. She finally emerged as the winner among 11 candidates.

With emotions running high around her victory, she said in a choked voice, "I had never thought that I would come such a long way, and people would give me so much respect and affection."

However, also among the winners in Gaya is Laksho Devi, who was jailed on the charges of being involved in smuggling of drugs. Laksho Devi filed her nomination from jail and got elected from ward 3 of the town.

At least 65% of the winners in the municipal elections are freshers, and out of them, 70 are women. Though the civic polls are not contested on party lines, with different political parties lending their support to respective candidates, sources said that six mayoral seats each were won by the BJP and grand alliance.

Earlier too, Gaya had surprised everybody when Bhagwati Devi, a stone crusher belonging to the maginalised Musahar community, was elected to Lok Sabha on RJD ticket in 1996.

Ukraine officials report strikes in several regions on New Year's eve

Kyiv mayor said attacks killed one person and injured seven others in Solomyanskyi district

KYIV

RUSSIAN strikes on Saturday targeted several regions of Ukraine, including the capital Kyiv, where the attacks killed at least one person and wounded several others, Ukrainian officials said.

"An elderly man died in Kyiv and seven others were injured as a result of two explosions... in Solomyanskyi district," Kyiv mayor Vitali Klitschko said on social media. He added that one person was in an "extremely severe condition."

Attacks were also reported in the southern Mykolaiv region, where governor Vitaliy Kim said at least two people were wounded, "one of them badly."

Oleksandr Sienkievych, the mayor of the region's main city of the same name, said a fire broke out in one of its districts and several residential buildings sustained damage as a result of the strikes. Several people were also injured, he added.

In the west, at least four people were wounded in the Khmelnytskyi region, governor Sergiy Gamaliy said, urging residents to stay in shelters.

Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelenskyy said that Russian President Vladimir Putin is "hiding behind the military, behind missiles, behind the walls of his residences and palaces." Addressing the Russians, he added that "no one in the world will forgive you for this. Ukraine will not forgive."

Ukrainian Foreign Minister Dmytro Kuleba highlighted the harsh civilian toll of this latest offensive—that "this time, Russia's mass missile attack is deliberately targeting residential areas, not even the energy infrastructure."

Meanwhile, Ukraine's air defence shot down 12 out of 20 missiles launched by Russia on Saturday afternoon, hours before New Year's Eve celebrations, the Ukrainian army said.

Russia "launched more than 20 cruise missiles...Our air defence destroyed 12 cruise missiles," Ukraine's commander-in-chief General Valeriy Zaluzhny said on social media, adding that six of them were shot down over Kyiv.

As Russian attacks continue to target power supplies leaving millions without electricity, no big celebrations are expected and a curfew will be in place as the clock rings in the new year. Agencies

Pioneer for women in journalism, Walters had A-listers on her show

NEW YORK

PIONEERING television journalist Barbara Walters, who upended a male-dominated industry as the first woman to anchor an evening news show in the US, died on Friday at the age of 93. Walters's long list of interviewees included leaders such as Boris Yeltsin, Margaret Thatcher, Indira Gandhi, Saddam Hussein and Vladimir Putin, and A-listers Michael Jackson, Angelina Jolie and Harrison Ford.

She died at her home in New York, tweeted Bob Iger, CEO of Disney, ABC's parent company. "Barbara was a true legend, a pioneer not just for women in journalism but for journalism itself," Iger said. Walters won 12 Emmy awards, all but one while at ABC, the network said.

She largely retired from television after signing off in 2014 from the daytime programme 'The View,' which she had launched in 1997. Walters created a much-copied template for high-profile political and celebrity interviews and blazed a trail for women in an industry run by white middle-aged men. "How proud I am today when I see all the young women who are making and reporting the news," Walters said on her last appearance on 'The View.' "If I did anything to help that happen, that's my legacy." Walters became the first woman to anchor a US evening news programme when she joined ABC Evening News in 1976, earning the then-unprecedented salary of $1 million a

Three years later, she was named co-host of the news magazine programme '20/20,' beginning a run that would last more than two decades. AFP

More European nations tighten Covid rules for passengers from China

PARIS

FRANCE, Spain and England have joined the growing list of nations that will implement tougher Covid-19 measures for fliers from China.

France's government requires negative tests, and has urged its citizens to avoid nonessential travel to China. France is also reintroducing mask requirements on flights from China to France. French health authorities will carry out random PCR tests at airports on passengers arriving from China to identify potential new coronavirus variants. The new rules take effect on Sunday, but officials said it would be a few days before they are fully in place.

The UK government announced that anyone travelling to England on direct flights from China would be required to take a pre-departure test from January 5.

Health Secretary Steve Barclay said that the UK was taking a "balanced and precautionary approach." He described the measures as "temporary" while officials assess Covid-19 statistics.

France and Spain said they would continue to push for a Europe-wide policy. France's hospitals have struggled in recent weeks with a large number of patients because of three concurrent outbreaks: the seasonal flu, a wave of bronchitis cases and Covid-19.

Earlier, Spain said it would require all air passengers coming from China to have Covid-negative tests or proof of vaccination. Health Minister Carolina Dar'as told reporters that Spain would be pushing for similar measures at a European level following the surge in cases in China. She said Covid health controls would be stepped up at Spanish airports. But Dar'as didn't specify when the new requirement would take effect. AP

British-Indian climate warrior Alok Sharma knighted

LONDON

Sharma was the president of the COP26, the first since the Paris Agreement of COP21 that expected parties to make enhanced commitments towards mitigating climate change. PTI

The broader NSE Nifty ended at 18,105.30, making a gain of 4.3% in 2022.

Rupee's worst performance

The Indian currency ended 2022 with 10.14% fall against the US dollar, becoming the worst performing Asian currency of the year. The 10.14% decline is the biggest ever since 2013, when the local currency slid 15% against the US dollar. In the last trading session of 2022, rupee ended the year at 82.86, closing in on the 83-mark again, which it has breached in October.

RBI's dollar sale to support rupee

The rupee remained under pressure from a strengthening dollar and outflow of investment from foreign portfolio investors. The Foreign portfolio investors (FPIs) had so far taken out net $18 billion in 2022. As rupee continued to fall, the RBI used its might to check the fall and in doing so saw the forex reserve falling to the lowest level of $524 billion in late October from the peak of $642 billion in November 2021. It ended the year at nearly $560 billion.

India's digital currency

To reduce dependency on paper currency, the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) this year launched India's Central Bank Digital Currency (CBDC), a sort of official cryptocurrency. This is touted as the big thing after the UPI (unified payment interface) in facilitating payments.

The RBI defines the digital Rupee as a form of digital token that represents legal tender. It is the same as a fiat currency and is exchangeable one-to-one with the fiat currency, unlike cryptocurrencies, where the value is highly volatile.

Disinvestment push of government

After much anticipation, the government finally offloaded 3.5% stake in the country's largest life insurer – Life Insurance Corporation of India – through an initial public offer (IPO) raising Rs 20,557 crore. Though the amount raised was much lower than was expected (₹ 60,000-70,000 crore), it remains the biggest IPO ever in terms of amount raised. LIC's IPO came after the government successfully transferred the government control over Air India to Tatas in 2021. Encouraged by the success of Air India and LIC, the government is now pushing for more strategic sales PSUs like IDBI Bank, Concor, BEML, etc.

Taxing the cryptos

After dilly dallying on the issue of legality of crypto currencies (private digital currencies), the government did take a stand on the issue, when the finance minister in her budget speech on 1 February 2022, imposed a tax of 30% on capital gains made on cryptos. It also levied 1% TDS on every transfer of crypto assets. The move to levy a hefty 30% tax on cryptos while leaving investors shell-shocked, they were relieved in a way that the government had not gone for an outright ban, as was expected by many. The RBI has been advocating outright ban of private cryptocurrencies terming them as a big financial risk, but the government has maintained that legality of crypto currencies is a global issue and that there should be a global response to the issue.

Inflation and unprecedented rate hike

An out-of-turn, hurriedly called Monetary Policy Committee (MPC) in May 2022 saw the RBI hiking repo rate by 40 basis points as retail Inflation in April (at 7.8%) came precariously close to 8%, forcing the central bank to change its view on inflation and the RBI's response to it. Till then RBI maintained that the nature of Indian inflation was different from that of the other developed economies and that the RBI was not behind the curve in dealing with the problem. But with April retail inflation at 8-year high, the central bank corrected course and followed it up with four more hikes during the year raising the repo rate by 225 basis points to 6.25%.

India successfully launches 5G in 2022

In 2022, India successfully conducted 5G spectrum auction, and garnered a whopping ₹1,50,173 crore from it. Among the bidders, Reliance Jio was the most aggressive bidder, followed by Bharti Airtel and Vodafone Idea. In October 2022, India officially ushered in the era of 5G technology on Saturday as Prime Minister Narendra Modi launched the technology in Delhi. The 5G technology, which will give ultra-high-speed Internet connectivity, was first launched in eight cities, including Delhi, Varanasi, Bengaluru and Mumbai. The government believes the cumulative economic impact of 5G on India is estimated to reach $450 billion by 2035. So far, RJio and Bharti Airtel had set up 5G base stations in almost 14 States. The telcos have deployed 20,980 base stations for 5G services as of November 26.

The rise and rise of Gautam Adani

No one in the world added more billions to their wealth than Gautam Adani, the head of port-to-power conglomerate Adani Group. Gautam Adani added a staggering $33.8 billion to his fortune in 2022, according to the latest Bloomberg Billionaire Index. For most part of this year, Adani remained as Asia's richest billionaire and for a brief period of time he became world's second richest billionaire. In business, Adani Group became the country's second largest cement maker in one go, committed billions in ramping up renewables, expanded its port business in foreign shores and recently acquired media outlet NDTV.

Funding winter for start-ups , layoffs in technology sector

2022 was the year of funding winter for start-ups. One of the main reasons for massive firing is funding crunch and global funding slowdown. The funding in the edtech sector alone witnessed a significant drop, about 39%, in 2022 compared to 2021. This triggered a flurry of layoffs in the tech startup sectors with companies like Byju's and Unacademy announcing major job cuts. Even employees in tech giants like Google, Meta, Twitter and Amazon could not escape the fate of job loss. Indian IT sector may follow suit in 2023. According to the report, over 2 million IT employees are expected to leave their jobs by 2025.

The mega collapse of new-age tech stocks

After a high-profile IPO in 2021, it was a dreadful year for new-age technology companies on the stock exchanges. While Paytm share prices have been falling since it got listed in November 2021, two other biggies- Nykaa and Zomato- wiped out billions of dollars of investors wealth this year.

In Calendar year 2022 so far, Paytm stock has plunged 60%, Nykaa 55% and Zomato 58%. Beside the big 3, PB Fintech (down 53%), Cartrade Tech (down 44%) and Delhivery (down 38%) disappointed the street. Investors continue to keep a distance from these stocks owing to high losses they report, rich IPO valuation and competition from established players.

Electric vehicle fires

Owing to poor battery management system in electric scooters there was a series of fire incidents and in a few instances individuals lost their lives. When summers of 2022 began, safety associated with EVs became a hot topic as e-scooter of almost every company, be it Ola Electric or Okinawa, was in flames. Following these incidents, the government took a note and introduced a set of EV battery safety standards, phase 1 of which came into effect on December 1, 2022. This year is also the year for increased EV adoption as sales of two-wheelers and e-rickshaws witnessed a big growth.

FOOD CARD

FOOD AID AND POLITICS, AN UNSAVOURY COCKTAIL

FOOD and politics is inextricably tied in India because of the extreme levels of hunger and poverty. That link has become even more solidified as the Covid pandemic hurled millions more into the jaws of poverty over the past two years.

In this scenario, the Modi government has played the food card deftly. Countering the backlash of farmers agitation, Yogi Adityanath won UP convincingly for the BJP. Four economic schemes played a crucial role in the BJP's victory – free 5-kg-foodgrain-every-month programme started in April 2020, separate subsidized 5-kg-per-person-scheme under National Food Security Act (NFSA); direct transfer of ₹6,000 in three instalments a year to farmers under PM-Kisan scheme; and once-a-month free gas cylinder.

Many things are about to change. The free food programme – the PM Garib Kalyan Anna Yojna – that funneled food aid to over 800 million poor has been called off. The government spent $47 billion for the programme over 28 months. Its finances are now in tatters and fiscal prudence demanded this be ended. Covid conditions easing off has given the government an escape hatch. To soften the blow, food and trade minister Piyush Goyal has simultaneously announced the subsidized foodgrain supplied under the NFSA programme – 5 kg per person per month or 35 kg per family – will come free for a year. On the other hand, by stopping the free Covid-era rations the government will be saving $20 billion over next 12 months. The question then is: with elections due in nine states in 2023, and the Lok Sabha poll in 2024, will the equation work against the BJP?

Smart timing

Smart politics is the art of messaging and the Modi government has been one step ahead in the game. For instance, the news of change in food support was not that the quantity was halved from 10 kg per person per month to 5 kg; the headline was: Subsidized foodgrains now to be given free for one year!

The government realized it was now or never. It is still some months to the state elections, and more than a year before the nation votes for a new Lok Sabha. Later, it would be impossible to withdraw or change food subsidy schemes in 2024; and what better time to drop the 'free' scheme than when it came up in regular course for renewal! On the political front, after a thumping win in UP, and now a landslide in Gujarat, the BJP thinks it is on a sound wicket. Prime Minister Narendra Modi's ratings are 60% or more with competitor Rahul Gandhi a distant second. On balance, the decision seems to have veered around financial prudence. The end to the 'free food' scheme will lower subsidy bill by about 30% to less than ₹4 lakh crore next fiscal from current year's ₹5.5 lakh crore. Money released from subsidizing food can be ploughed into infra and other key sectors.

GURBIR SINGH

Poverty and food

But there is another cynical aspect to the food aid-politics tie-up. It is sad that 800 million people of a nation of 1.3 billion should need free 5 kg of ration a month or a direct transfer of ₹6,000 over a year to survive. Or, that a 5-kg freebie is what lies between life and death.

The World Bank, using its new poverty line of ₹178 ($2.15) a day, says extreme poverty fell to 10.01% in 2019 from 11.09% in 2018. But Covid reversed the gains and about 56 million Indians slipped back into extreme poverty in 2020. Many economists say these figures are underestimations. Former Planning Commission member N C Saxena says 275-300 million people fell into extreme poverty during the pandemic and NITI Aayog's poverty index identifies 25% as poor. It is true India has come a long way in food security. Over 70 years, we have seen food grain output rise six-fold from 51 million tonne (MT) in 1951 to a projected 315 MT in FY23. Gone are the days of begging bowl of the 1960s where government officials made their way to various world capitals to strike import deals to meet food deficit. Green Revolution and overflowing godowns now doesn't mean no one is sleeping hungry.

Poverty is not equivalent to lack of food. Other needs not being satisfied – shelter, clothing, education, access to transport, health and wellness – contribute to the condition we call poverty. That is why empirical evidence shows instead of food aid, the need of the hour is direct money transfer to the poorest 40%. Additional purchasing power will allow them to buy milk, clothing, housing and education, among other vital needs.

United Cup: Nadal loses in three sets to Norrie

Rafael Nadal has ended an up-and-down 2022 with a 3-6 6-3 6-4 loss to Britain's Cameron Norrie at the United Cup mixed teams tournament on Saturday. Nadal won the Australian Open and French Open to take his career Grand Slam si ngles total to a leading 22. But foot, rib and abdomen injuries meant he played only four events after Wimbledon in July.

As another year begins, India's elite athletes approach the qualification pathway for this truncated Olympic cycle ahead of the next edition of the Games in France in 2024

FIROZ MIRZA @Chennai

THE Tokyo Olympics turned out to be the most successful Games for India with the country's athletes clinching seven medals including a gold, two silver and four bronze. The Covid-19 pandemic postponed the Tokyo Games by a year but India's show at the showpiece event, especially with the first ever top-of-the-podium finish in track and field, by the star javelin thrower Neeraj Chopra made everyone sit up and take notice.

At the same time, it has also increased expectations. Come the next quadrennial event in Paris in 2024, Indian athletes will once again be the cynosure of all eyes. But before setting the Olympic stage on fire, they need to qualify for the big-ticket event and the quest for the same has already begun. While the qualifying period for a few disciplines including athletics (marathon) and weightlifting has already started, the cycle for the remaining sports is scheduled to start soon.

Focus on Wrestlers and shuttlers ahead of 2024

Wrestling and badminton are the two disciplines that have consistently fetched Olympic medals for the country this century. And Paris, it seems, would not be different. As far as wrestling is concerned, India won two medals in Tokyo thanks to Ravi Dahiya (57kg silver) and Bajrang Punia (65kg bronze). They are again expected to be the medal contenders accompanied by other male and female wrestlers.

The qualification period for the wrestlers starts on September 16, 2023, with the World Championships wherein 90 quotas will be on offer (60 men and 30 women). Medallists in each Olympic weight category (six divisions each in men's freestyle, Greco-Roman and women's wrestling are in the Olympic programme) — a gold, a silver and two bronze — will get a quota each. Besides, a bout will be organised between the two losers of the bronze medal match and the winner will obtain the quota.

The next will be the Asian Qualifier in April 2024 with 36 places (24 men and 12 women) up for grabs. The two highest-placed wrestlers in each Olympic weight category will qualify for the Paris Games. The same will be the process during the World Qualifier scheduled in May 2024.

The only sore spot for wrestlers, however, would be the clashing of dates of the Worlds and Asian Games, which last year was postponed till September 2023 due to rising Covid cases in China. The Asiad is scheduled to be held from September 23 and October 8 even as the Worlds finishes on September 24 forcing wrestlers to choose between the two. With Olympic quotas on offer at the Worlds, it is a no-brainer which event the wrestlers will prefer.

Like previous editions, a lot will be expected from Indian shuttlers. The Ranking Period for the 'Race to Paris Ranking Lists' is from May 1, 2023 to April 28, 2024. The 'Paris Ranking Lists' as of April 30, 2024, will be used to award quota places in men's and women's singles events, as well as men's, women's and mixed doubles events. Once again PV Sindhu, who has won consecutive medals at the Games (silver in Rio and bronze in Tokyo), is expected to spearhead India's challenge with rising shuttler Lakshya Sen and tenacious HS Prannoy also in medal contention.

RACE TO PARIS

Can lifter Mirabai make it two in a row at Olympics?

The period for the Olympic Qualification Ranking (OQR) in weightlifting has already started with the Tokyo silver-medallist Mirabai Chanu winning her second Worlds medals, this time silver, in Bogota, Colombia early in December. A lot will ride on her if India hopes to start their campaign with a bang in Paris as it did in Tokyo. Jeremy Lalrinnunga and Achinta Sheuli, both Commonwealth Games gold-medallists, will have to outdo each other as only one of them can qualify for the Games in 73kg.

Of the 12 athletes in each of the 10 weight categories, five for men and five for women, 10 will earn their places from a ranking list compiled during the qualifying period. Only the best single performance will count, but athletes are compelled to participate in at least five out of seven qualifying competitions.

"Those who can make it to the Olympics will now compete only in selected events. Most of them are doing rehabilitation at the moment," Vijay Sharma, India's chief weightlifting coach, told this daily.

The Indian lifters are presently camping at the NIS Patiala. "The next qualifying event for Indian lifters is the 2023 Asian Championships in Jinju, South Korea from May 3 to 13. After that we will compete in two mandatory events — the 2023 IWF World Championships in Riyadh, Saudi Arabia from September 2 to 17, and the 2024 IWF World Cup in Phuket, Thailand from April 2 to 11. Our lifters will also compete at the 2023 IWF Grand Prix II (Doha, Qatar) early in December and then one event out of five specified tournaments will be chosen," added the coach.

Neeraj best bet in athletics

Given the history he has been creating ever since pocketing the gold in Tokyo, reigning Olympic champion Chopra will again be the center of attraction when the track and field competitions start in Paris. Athletes will qualify in two ways for the 2024 Games, with 50 per cent of qualification places based on achieving the entry standard for an event within the qualification period, and the remaining 50 per cent based on the World Athletics Ranking within the ranking period.

The qualification and ranking period for all individual events — other than the 10,000m, marathon, combined events and race walks — will be between July 1, 2023, and June 30, 2024. For the 10,000m, combined events, race walks and relays, the qualification and ranking period will be between December 31, 2022, and June 30 2024, while for the marathon, the period will be between November 1, 2022, and April 30, 2024. In the javelin, 32 quotas will be allotted each in the men's and women's sections. The entry standard for male javelin throwers is 85.50m and while it is 64.00m for their women counterparts.

Boxing is another discipline where India can expect medals. Lovlina Borgohain bagged 69kg bronze in Tokyo and the same will be expected this time with world champion Nikhat Zareen also in the fray. The Indian boxers' pathway to the Games begins with the Asian Games. They then have two world qualification tournaments in 2024 as per the new system approved by the executive board of the International Olympic Committee (IOC).

To surmise, it's going to be an action-packed 18 months or so for India's elite as they try to rubber-stamp their Paris ticket.

AGENCIES @Dehradun

THERE is substantial improvement in the condition of cricketer Rishabh Pant and doctors are yet to decide if he has to be shifted to some other facility, according to his family friends and others who visited him at the hospital here on Saturday.

Pant's mother Saroj Pant and his sister Sakshi are with him at the hospital, they said. DDCA director Shyam Sharma and Bollywood actors Anil Kapoor and Anupam Kher were among people who met him at the hospital. "There are no immediate plans to shift him anywhere as his condition has improved substantially since yesterday," said Umesh Kumar who has been constantly with the family at the Max Hospital. His condition is improving but the BCCI doctors who are constantly in touch with the doctors at the Max Hospital will take a call on whether or not he should be taken elsewhere for the treatment of his ligament injury, Umesh Kumar said.

Barca held by Espanyol, Benzema powers Real

AGENCIES @Barcelona

BARCELONA stumbled in their first game since a seven-week World Cup break as they were held 1-1 by Espanyol at Camp Nou in a heated derby that finished with both teams having a player sent off in the final minutes on Saturday.

Barcelona were in control from the fourth minute after defender Marcos Alonso scored with a header. But complacency by the hosts and some staunch defending by Espanyol gave striker Joselu Mata the chance to equalise from a penalty in the 73rd after he was fouled by Alonso in the box.

Karim Benzema buried his World Cup nightmare with two late goals as Real Madrid defeated Valladolid 2-0 on Friday.

Ronaldo signs for Al Nassr in deal worth 'more than 200m euros'

AFP @Riyadh

CRISTIANO Ronaldo on Friday signed for Al Nassr of Saudi Arabia, the club announced, in a deal believed to be worth more than 200 million euros.

The 37-year-old penned a contract which will take him to June 2025. "I can't wait to discover a new football league in a different country," said the former Manchester United, Real Madrid and Juventus player.

The Portuguese star was pictured on the Al Nassr Twitter feed holding a blue and yellow shirt with his favoured number seven printed on the back. "The vision with which Al Nassr operates is very inspiring, and I am delighted to join my teammates, so that together we can help the team achieve greater success," he added.

Al Nassr have won nine Saudi Arabian league titles, the last in 2019. "This is more than history in the making. This is a signing that will not only inspire our club to achieve even greater success but inspire our league, our nation and future generations, boys and girls to be the best version of themselves. Welcome @cristiano to your new home @alnassr_fc," tweeted the Saudis.

Ronaldo heads to the Gulf after a year that saw him relegated to the bench for Portugal and cut adrift by Manchester United. United parted ways with the Portuguese star after the veteran forward gave an explosive TV interview in which he said he felt "betrayed" by the club and had no respect for coach Erik ten Hag. United terminated his contract while Ronaldo was with Portugal at the World Cup. Ronaldo's quest for a World Cup winners' medal started well as he became the first player to score in five global tournaments when he converted a penalty in their win against Ghana. But he was left out of the starting line-up for their last-16 clash as Portugal ripped Switzerland apart. When Portugal lost to Morocco in the quarter-finals, he started on the bench and ended the tournament in tears.

Ronaldo has long been one of the top-paid players in football. His salary was a reported 31 million euros at Juventus, although the Turin club's accounts are being investigated for possibly under-reporting what they paid players.

While he took a pay cut to rejoin United, with reports putting his basic annual salary somewhere between 15 million and 28 million euros, before bonuses, that still made him one of the best-paid players in Europe.
